MANAGERS CORNER JUNE 2026

55+ Community Reporting

Current IDs and Home Titles Requirement

In accordance with the Housing for Older Persons Act (HOPA) of 1995, we are required to biennially report the ownership and residency details of our community to ensure compliance. In February, we distributed a letter outlining the necessary documentation needed to maintain our 55+ eligibility status. As of now, only approximately 60% of residents have submitted copies of their current property titles and identification for each owner and occupant. We kindly request that you deliver these documents to the office at your earliest convenience. Should you require a copy of our community prospectus which details these requirements, we would be happy to provide one. For those who have not yet submitted the necessary information, we will be conducting home visits to collect the required documents. Our goal is to streamline this process for everyone involved. Thank you for your cooperation in helping us meet the requirements to maintain our eligibility.

Veteran's Corner

I have been asked on many occasions to explain what a Military Veteran feels and believes of their service.

I would have to humbly say in my opinion: "We left home as teenagers or in our early twenties for an unknown adventure.

We loved our country enough to defend it, and protect it with our own lives. We said goodbye to friends and family, and everything we knew.

We found new friends and family.

We became sisters and brothers regardless of color, race and creed.

We shared plenty of good times together, and not so good times.

We did not get enough sleep, and some of us drank too much, and smoked too much. We worked hard and played even harder.

We did not earn a great wage. We grew up fast, and some of us never grew up at all. We all experienced the happiness of mail call, and the sadness of missing important family events.

I with much humility engaged in actual Combat, and some I thank the Lord did not.

Some of us dealt with physical warfare, and most of us dealt with and continue to deal with psychological warfare.

We have seen and experienced and dealt with things we cannot fully describe or explain, and not all our sacrifices were physical.

We have dealt with victory and tragedy. We have celebrated and mourned. We have lost a few, and many comrades along life's way.

When our adventure was over, some of us came back home. Some of us physically, emotionally and psychologically never returned home.

We Veterans share an unspoken bond with one another, that most people will never understand.

We Veterans know however, that if needed and lawfully represented by our Constitution, will be there for our sister and brother Veterans.

Again, in my opinion being a Veteran is something that had to be earned, and can never be taken away from us.

Being a Veteran in my opinion and experience has no monetary value, but at the same time, it is a priceless and personal gift.

All gave some. Some gave all!

Respectfully submitted,

Anthony Suglia

June Birthstones

June has three birthstones: pearl, alexandrite, and moonstone.

Pearls are the only gemstones made by living creatures. Mollusks produce pearls by depositing layers of calcium carbonate around microscopic irritants—usually a grain of sand, as it’s commonly believed—that get lodged in their shells.

A relatively modern gemstone, Alexandrite was discovered in Russian emerald mines located in the Ural Mountains. Legends claim that it was discovered in 1834 on the same day that future Russian Czar Alexander II came of age, hence the name honoring him.

June’s third birthstone, Moonstone, was named by the Roman natural historian Pliny, who wrote that moonstone’s shimmery appearance shifted with the phases of the moon.

June Fun Facts & Recipes

June 1215 King John of England was forced to sign the Magna Carta, a document that established the principles of limited government and the rights of Englishmen, according to the Great Courses Plus.

June 1815 The Battle of Waterloo took place, marking the final defeat of Napoleon Bonaparte and ending his reign, according to History Extra.

June 1865:

Juneteenth, the anniversary of the emancipation of enslaved African Americans in the United States, is celebrated

The month of June comes from the Roman, or Julian, calendar. June was initially named Iunius. The name either comes from the Roman goddess Juno, wife of Jupiter, or from the word "iuniores", the Latin word for "younger ones". In the early Roman calendar June only had 29 days. It was Julius Caesar who added the additional day giving June 30 days.

June recipe from 1783

Florentine Rabbits

Skin three young rabbits, but leave on their ears, and wash and dry them with a cloth. Carefully take out the bones, but leave the head whole. Lay the rabbits on the table and put in the following forcemeat: Take the crumb of a penny loaf, the livers shred fine, half a pound of fat bacon scraped, a glass of red wine, an anchovy, two eggs, a little winter savory, some sweet marjoram, thyme, and a little pepper, salt, and nutmeg. Having put this into the bellies, roll them up to the heads, skewer them with packthread, as you would a collar of veal. Wrap each in a cloth, and boil them an hour and a half, in a saucepan covered, with two quarts of water. Have ready a white sauce made of veal gravy, a little anchovy, the juice of half a lemon, or a tea-spoonful of lemon-pickle. Strain it, and take a quarter of a pound of butter rolled in flour, so as to make the sauce pretty thick. Keep stirring it while the flour is dissolving. Beat the yolk of an egg, put to it some thick cream, nutmeg, and salt, and mix it with the gravy. Let it simmer a little over the fire, but not boil, and pour it over the rabbits.

Flying in the face of disaster

In the 1980s and early '90s, Continental Airlines was a disaster. The organization had gone bankrupt twice and was on its way to a third (and final) catastrophe. It had gone through 10 presidents in 10 years, and employees mistrusted management.

Then in 1994 Gordon Bethune stepped in. Instead of running around willy-nilly trying to stamp out the various raging fires, Bethune took a step back to return to the basics. He identified Continental's key goals so that employees' efforts would be concentrated on them rather than diffused by the disaster of the moment. One of his areas of focus was creating a corporate culture. Without the commitment of the employees, the other goals would be impossible.

Drawing on the organization's history of excellence in service, he rallied the workforce. Bethune discovered that the employees weren't bad—they just worked in a dysfunctional organization. So they were quick to get behind his new leadership.

Senior management was a different story. Bethune knew he had to make wholesale changes, and that meant getting rid of the bureaucracy. In a couple of months, Bethune and his top executives replaced 50 of the company's 61 officers with 20 top-notch people.

The changes were dramatic. In one year's time, Continental went from being ranked the worst in customer satisfaction among major airlines to first.

The birth of 'excellence'

Tom Peters didn't exactly give birth to excellence, but he did establish the idea that companies can achieve excellence under the inspiration of a management guru—like himself.

It all began in the spring of 1978. John Larson of McKinsey's San Francisco office was set to give a presentation to a client. But his computer crashed and took with it his notes. He turned to another consultant, Tom Peters, to throw together a presentation that would satisfy the client.

Peters had just returned from traveling the world to compile research on best practices in business. Up until then, his research had been collecting dust after he had presented it to the McKinsey powers that be. With an opportunity to present his findings again, Peters gathered his data. In search of a sexy title to give his presentation, Peters came up with "Excellence." It was a hit.

Eventually, Peters edited the material into a manuscript. Continuing with the idea of excellence, he titled the book The Secrets of Excellence. But the title didn't fly with the McKinsey folks, who feared that clients would think the company was selling the secrets of client operations. In 1982, Peters and co-author Robert Waterman renamed it the more politically astute In Search of Excellence. And thus was excellence born.

Mix these ingredients for cultural creativity

Do you want to nurture a culture of creativity in your organization? Try to build in these essential ingredients:

- Curiosity. Ask people questions that challenge the conventional wisdom. Encourage them to stretch boundaries and take chances on new opportunities.
- Emotion. People who love what they do are better at generating new ideas about their work. Hire and support people who show a real enthusiasm for your organization and its mission.
- Tolerance. People won't suggest ideas if they're afraid of being punished for failure. Encourage risk taking by showing forgiveness when things don't work out, as long as people are giving their best efforts.
- Direction. A clear sense of what you want to achieve will help people focus their ideas. Have a concrete mission statement that tells everyone what you're trying to do, why it's important, and how it will benefit everyone.

What do the instructions say? Creativity expert

Yoram Solomon often conducts workshops that teach people to approach problems with an open mind. In one exercise (recounted on the Inc. magazine website), he asks participants to build a structure out of a sheet of paper. Some cut the paper into smaller pieces, although his instructions don't specifically say they can.

Once everyone is finished, Solomon asks, "Did the instructions allow you to cut the paper?" Most believe they've done something wrong. But one person usually pipes up with, "You didn't say we couldn't, either."

"To be creative," Solomon points out, "don't assume restrictions that don't really exist."

Stay safe when working in the heat

When heat and humidity combine to reduce the amount of evaporation of sweat from the body, outdoor work can become dangerous even for those in good shape. The key rules for coping with heat are to drink plenty of water to avoid dehydration and slow down and cool off when experiencing fatigue, a headache, a high pulse rate, or shallow breathing. Overheating can cause serious, even life-threatening conditions such as heatstroke. Look out for these symptoms of heat illness:

- Heat cramps. Working in hot weather can lead to muscle cramps, especially in the legs, because of brief imbalances in body salts. Cramps become less frequent as a person becomes used to the heat.
- Heat syncope or fainting. Anyone not used to working in the heat can experience a quick drop in blood pressure that can lead to fainting. As with heat cramps, the best approach is to take it easy.
- Heat exhaustion. Losing fluid and salt through perspiration or replacing them in an imbalanced way can lead to dizziness and weakness. Body temperature might rise, but shouldn't exceed 102 degrees. The best defense is to take it easy and drink plenty of water. Don't take salt tablets without consulting a physician.
- Heatstroke. In some cases extreme heat can upset the body's thermostat, causing body temperature to rise to 105 degrees or higher. Symptoms are lethargy, confusion, and unconsciousness. Even a suspicion that someone might be suffering from heatstroke requires immediate medical aid. Heatstroke can kill.

Stay awake on the road

Fatigue can be a killer, especially when you're driving on the open highway for long periods of time. Here are a few tips for staying safe at the wheel:

- Get enough rest. Try not to start a trip late in the day. Long-distance driving is tough enough in the daytime. Be ready and awake.
- If possible, don't drive alone. Passengers can take turns driving, or at least help you stay awake if you need stimulation.
- Watch your posture. Drive with your head up and your shoulders back. Tuck your buttocks against the seat back. Legs should not be fully extended, but flexed at about a 45-degree angle.
- Take frequent breaks. Stretching is good for staying flexible and awake.

Beware these creativity myths

Creativity can seem magical and mysterious, but you shouldn't make assumptions that can hold your imagination back. Watch out for these misconceptions that can impede your efforts to find innovative ideas and solutions:

- The “eureka” moment. Many people believe that creativity is a sudden flash of insight. More often it's the result of research and persistence, immersing yourself in a subject, and then building on what you learn.
- Inborn creativity. You aren't necessarily born with the ability—or inability—to think creatively. You can learn the knack by asking questions, looking at things in new ways, and challenging the status quo.
- Uniqueness. Good ideas don't always spring from something new. Often the best ideas and solutions come from combining separate elements in different ways.
- Lone wolves. The stereotype of the genius working alone in an office or laboratory is misleading at best. Although some mavericks do produce good ideas totally on their own, many of the best ideas and solutions are the result of collaboration by smart, motivated people.
- Brainstorming. Brainstorming sessions can produce results if they're focused on a specific issue. If it's just a free-form session of throwing ideas around, chances are you won't generate practical solutions. Keep the discussion centered on the problem you're trying to solve.
- No limits. Creativity may seem to thrive on the concept of thinking beyond boundaries. In reality, constraints can force your thinking in the right direction. Try setting some limits to what you want to create—size, budget, deadlines—and see how that helps focus your imagination.

Curiosity about life in all of its aspects, I think, is still the secret of great creative people.
