A RIB TICKLER:

A teenage boy had just passed his driving test and inquired of his father as to when they could discuss his use of the car.

His father said he'd make a deal with his son. "You bring your grades up from a C to a B average, study your Bible a little, and get your hair cut. Then we'll take about the car."

The boy thought about that for a moment, decided, he'd settle for the offer, and they agreed on it.

After about six weeks his father said, "Son, you've brought your grades up and I've observed that you have been studying your Bible, but I'm disappointed you haven't had your hair cut."

The boy said, "You know, Dad, I've been thinking about that, and I've noticed in my studies of the Bible that Samson had long hair, John the Baptist had long hair, Moses had long hair, and there's even strong evidence that Jesus had long hair."

"Did you also notice they all walked everywhere!!"

‘Everything you love will be lost’

Writer Franz Kafka (1883–1924) never married and had no children. According to a story, he liked to walk through a park in Berlin where one day he met a girl who was crying because she had lost her favorite doll. She and Kafka searched for the doll unsuccessfully.

Kafka told her to meet him there the next day and they would come back to look for her. The next day, when they had not yet found the doll, Kafka gave the girl a letter “written” by the doll saying, “Please don’t cry. I took a trip to see the world. I will write to you about my adventures.”

Thus began a story which continued until the end of Kafka’s life.

During their meetings, Kafka read the letters of the doll, carefully written with adventures and conversations that the girl found adorable.

Finally, Kafka bought another doll and gave it to the girl. “It doesn’t look like my doll at all,” said the girl.

Kafka handed her another letter in which the doll wrote: “My travels have changed me.” The little girl hugged the new doll and carried it home.

A year later Kafka died.

Many years afterward, the now-adult girl found a letter inside the doll. In the tiny letter, signed by Kafka, was written: “Everything you love will probably be lost, but in the end, love will return in another way.”

So no aliens, but still a fascinating phenomenon for scientists to study.

Here’s the thing—you don’t need a captive audience to be heard. You need better true stories, well told. You don’t have to rely on luck to tell better stories, you can do it with intention and practice—by design. You don’t need permission to take the stage. You need to find and practice telling stories that matter.

— Bernadette Jiwa

There is something in us, as storytellers and as listeners to stories, that demands the redemptive act, that demands that what falls at least be offered the chance to be restored.

— Flannery O’Connor

Memorial Day: a solemn occasion

Memorial Day began in the 19th century as "Decoration Day." Citizens were urged to decorate the graves of soldiers who'd died in the Civil War. After World War I, Decoration Day expanded to include ceremonies honoring the dead in all of America's wars.

Decoration Day became Memorial Day officially in 1967. In 1968 the Uniform Holidays Act established it as one of three holidays (including Veteran's Day and George Washington's birthday, now called President's Day) celebrated on a Monday to create a convenient three-day weekend. Memorial Day is now observed on the last Monday in May.

It didn't matter how big our house was; it mattered that there was love in it.

Nap time

An old, tired dog ambled into a man's backyard one afternoon. He was obviously well fed, and wore a collar, showing that he had a home and was well taken care of.

The man patted the dog on the head for a few minutes. Then the dog laid down and went to sleep. An hour later, he woke up and walked away.

The dog came back the next day, and the day after that, until soon he was coming every single day. The man didn't mind, but he was curious, so one day he pinned a note to the dog's collar:

"Your wonderful, sweet dog comes to visit me every day for head pats and then a long nap. I just wanted you to know that we enjoy his visits."

The next day the dog arrived with a note in response:

"Thank you! He lives in a house with five children, two under the age of three, so he's trying to catch up on his sleep. Can I come with him tomorrow?"

Things to think about

Ever wonder about these?

- What if my dog only brings back the ball because he thinks I like throwing it?
- If poison is past its expiration date, does that mean it's no longer poisonous?
- Which letter in the word "scent" is silent, S or C?
- Do twins ever realize that one of them is unplanned?
- Why is the letter W called "Double U"? Shouldn't it be called "Double V"?
- Do you ever think that every time you clean something, you make something else dirty?
- Have you ever noticed that the word "swims" upside down is still "swims"?
- Did you know that trying to lose a game of rock-paper-scissors is just as hard as trying to win?

Language follies

English is strange, isn't it?

- "Minute" and "minute" shouldn't be spelled the same.
- I am not content with this content.
- I object to that object.
- I need to read what I just read.
- Excuse me, but there's no excuse for this.
- Someone should wind this article up and throw it in the wind.
