RECIPES

Macaroni and Cheese - Scott Rebrook

- 1 lb. elbow macaroni
- 1 Tbs olive oil
- 2 C whole milk
- 2 C heavy cream
- 8 tbs butter (divided 6+2)
- ½ C all-purpose flour
- 20 oz grated cheese- any combo you like. I used sharp cheddar and extra sharp cheddar. I have also used gruyere and sharp white. Whatever combo you like.
- ½ tsp freshly ground black pepper
- ¼ tsp pre-ground or freshly ground nutmeg
- Salt to taste Anywhere from 1 tsp to 1 tbs. Remember that the cheeses are already salty so you don't need a lot.
- ¾ C panko breadcrumbs
- 1 C freshly grated parmesan cheese
- 8-10 grape tomatoes

1. Preheat the oven to 375 degrees.
2. Cook the pasta according to the directions, adding the tablespoon of olive oil to the cooking water. Usually about 6 or 7 minutes for elbow macaroni. Drain well.
3. Heat the milk and heavy cream in a small heavy-bottom saucepan until hot but not boiling.
4. Meanwhile, use the same pasta pot to melt 6 tbs of butter over medium-low heat then add ½ cup of flour whisking continuously until smooth, about 2 minutes. Pour in the hot milk and cream while continuing to whisk for another minute or two until thicker and smooth. Remove from the heat and add all the cheese, black pepper, nutmeg and salt. Mix it up really good until it's all combined.
5. Pour the mixture into a 3-quart glass baking dish sprayed with a little cooking spray.
6. Next, combine the panko bread crumbs and freshly grated parmesan cheese in a small bowl then pour the remaining 2 tbs of butter (melted) over the mixture evenly over the top of the macaroni and cheese, then stud the top with the grape tomatoes to make it look pretty.
7. Bake for 30-35 minutes until the mixture is bubbly and the topping golden brown.

No ordinary talking mule

A farmer in the country was very poor. Tired of living in squalor, he decided to sell the only thing he owned—his talking mule. This was no ordinary talking mule, though. He could tell jokes and sing and dance. But with much regret, the farmer set off to the big city to sell his mule.

He set up on a street corner, and the mule drew an immediate crowd. The mule was so funny that the crowds couldn't remain standing for long because they were laughing so hard. Finally, a man came up to the farmer and said, "I'm a talent scout. I MUST have your mule for our show."

Unfortunately, the talent scout had just been pickpocketed, and had lost his wallet. The only thing in his pockets was a subway token. He convinced the farmer to trade the mule for the "Magic Token of Good Fortune" and secured the mule.

On the way home, the farmer realized that he had been cheated. Broken hearted, he decided to use the subway token to ride to the edge of the city. But when he put the token in the slot, alarms went off. He was frightened at first, but then he was notified that he was the 1 billionth rider of the subway, and he had just won $50 million.

Meanwhile, the mule was so successful that he became the toast of Broadway.

Moral of the story: A mule that is funny is soon bartered.

The best way to pray

A priest, a minister, and a guru sat in a new interfaith community center. While a telecommunications worker installed the new phone system, they began discussing the best positions for prayer.

"Kneeling is definitely the best way to pray," the priest said.

"No," said the minister. "I get the best results standing with my hands outstretched to heaven."

"You're both wrong," the guru said. "The most effective prayer position is the lotus position."

The telephone technician sat up. "Excuse me, gentlemen, but I should tell you that the best praying I ever did was when I was hanging upside down from a telephone pole."

If you wish to glimpse inside a human soul and get to know a man ... just watch him laugh. If he laughs well, he's a good man.

A bag of miseries

A rich man every night prayed the same prayer: “Dear God, I am the most unhappy man on the earth. Why have you made my life full of problems? I am ready to exchange my difficulties with anybody else. Can’t you give me an opportunity to exchange my worries with somebody else?”

One night in a dream he heard a voice that told him: “Gather all of your miseries into a bag and bring them to the town hall.”

When he got to the town hall, the rich man saw that all his neighbors had also packed their miseries into big bags. He saw that some people were carrying much bigger bags than his. Even people he had always seen smiling on the street and saying nice things to each other were carrying bigger bags.

Inside the hall, the voice said, “Put your bags around the hall.” Everyone put their bags down, and the voice said, “Now you can choose any bundle that you like.”

And everybody rushed to their own bags.

The rich man also rushed towards his own bag, afraid that somebody else might choose it. But everybody chose their own bag with great relief and happily carried their bags back to their homes. Even the rich man who had prayed for years to exchange his miseries was very happy. He walked home thinking, “Who knows what is in the other bags? At least we are aware of our own problems. And we have become accustomed to our own difficulties.”

Moral: Solving your own problems is better than exchanging them with someone else.

Give 100 percent

A little boy and girl were enjoying a pleasant afternoon playing outside in their neighborhood together. The boy showed the girl his collection of beautiful, unique marbles. In turn, the girl showed the boy the handful of candy that she had just gotten for her birthday.

The boy proposed that the two of them switch—he would give her all of his marbles if she handed over all of her candy. The girl agreed, as she found the marbles to be beautiful as well.

The boy handed over all of his marbles, but kept one—the most exquisite one of them all—in his pocket. The girl kept her promise and gave the boy all of her candy.

That night, the girl was happy with the exchange and peacefully went to sleep.

The boy, however, couldn’t sleep, because he kept wondering if the girl had secretly kept some of her candy, just like he did with the marble.

If you don’t give 100%, you will always assume your partner isn’t giving 100% either.

Telepsychiatry a boon for patients during pandemic

The COVID-19 pandemic forced many health care workers into virtual mode, offering their services via Zoom or other video outlets. Mental health services were among those embracing the technology. A survey of clinicians at 18 mental health centers in 11 states, reported on the Psychiatry Advisor website, found that 73% who used two-way video to treat patients found the experience “excellent” or “good.” Sixty-six percent who used phone-based services said the same. Only 4% who used video, and 3% who relied on phones, rated the experience “poor” or “very poor.”

Overall, the most common advantages cited by providers were flexible scheduling or rescheduling (77%), timely appointment starts (68%), and a decline in no-shows (52%). There were some disadvantages, including technical difficulties by patients using devices (52%), lack of closeness or connection with patients (46%), and technical difficulties on the provider end (39%). Still, 64% of providers in the survey plan to continue using telepsychiatry in some capacity after the end of the pandemic.

Summer travel is back again

Lots of vacations got canceled last summer. According to the Travel Weekly website, a Harris Poll reports that 77% of Americans plan to travel this summer, up from 29% in summer 2020. As of early May, two-thirds have actively planned or booked a vacation—more than half of them traveling for the first time since the start of the pandemic.

Alternatives to meat growing in acceptance

Meat isn't automatically on the menu these days, according to the Lansing State Journal. A 2021 Michigan State University Food Literacy and Engagement poll found that approximately 41% of Americans say they're likely to buy artificially produced forms of meat that look and taste the same, up from 33% in 2018.

The survey looked at people's understanding of the relationship between food and climate change. One finding: Fewer than 50% of people surveyed realized that eating plant-based foods can help reduce greenhouse gas emissions.

Meatless meat was originally made from beans, soy, cauliflower, and the like. Newer versions feature plant-like “meat” designed to resemble traditional meat. But Americans are becoming more open to eating meatlike products made from other sources, like insects. One 2019 poll found that 25% of Americans are willing to try that. Meat grown from cells in labs are a potential future option, though none are commercially available in the U.S. right now. Still, 35% of Americans say they're likely to buy some when it comes out.

Try these numbers on for size

You think high school algebra was hard? Try wrapping your mind around these amazing numbers, courtesy of the Cracked website:

- To write the largest known prime number in a straight line, you would need a sheet of paper 23 miles long.
- Americans use 100,000,000,000 plastic shopping bags a year, enough to stretch end to end around the equator twice every day.
- A blue whale can eat up to 40 million small krill a day—about 7,900 pounds, which is more than the weight of a Hummer.
- A Rubik’s Cube has 45,252,003,274,489,856,000 possible configurations.
- There are 12.1 trillion digits of pi known right now. A piece of paper needed to write them in a straight line would stretch to the sun and back.
- LEGO manufactures 125 million bricks a day, more than the number of banknotes the U.S. prints in a day (38 million).
- Beetles represent 30% of all known animal species, with more than 300,000 species currently identified.
- People send 205 billion emails every day. If you were to print out each one on a separate sheet of office paper—which would consume 25 million trees—the stack would stretch halfway around the equator.

‘We hold these truths to be self-evident ...’

On July 4, Americans celebrate the signing of the Declaration of Independence. The Declaration was officially adopted by the Continental Congress in Philadelphia on July 4, 1776, although Congress formally declared independence from Great Britain on July 2, and the Declaration wasn’t signed by all 56 members until August.

Some other facts about the founding document of the United States that you may not know:

- There’s a message on the back. No, it’s not an invisible treasure map (as in the Nicolas Cage movie National Treasure). The words “Original Declaration of Independence, dated 4th July 1776” appear on the reverse side of the document on display in the National Rotunda, at the bottom and upside down.
- About 200 copies of the Declaration were immediately produced by printer John Dunlap for distribution through the 13 colonies. Of these original “Dunlap broadsides,” 26 still exist.
- The original document wasn’t printed on paper, but “engrossed” on parchment. Engrossing is a process for preparing an official document in large, clear handwriting.
- At the bottom left corner of the Declaration is an unidentified handprint. Historians speculate that it’s the result of the document’s being rolled up for transport and handled by various people for extensive exhibition in the early years of its existence.
- The two youngest signers of the Declaration were Thomas Lynch Jr. and Edward Rutledge, both of South Carolina, both 26 years old at the time. The oldest signer was Benjamin Franklin, 70. Nine of the original signers died before the American Revolution ended in 1783.

Unsportsmanlike conduct

At one point during a game, the coach called one of his nine-year-old baseball players aside and asked, “Do you understand what cooperation is? What a team is?”

“Yes, coach,” replied the little boy.

“Do you understand that what matters is whether we win or lose together as a team?”

The little boy nodded.

“So,” the coach continued, “I’m sure you know, when an out is called, you shouldn’t argue, curse the umpire, or call him a jerk. Do you understand all that?”

Again, the little boy nodded.

The coach continued, “And when I take you out of the game so that another boy gets a chance to play, it’s not a stupid decision or that the coach is an idiot, is it?”

“No, coach.”

“Good,” said the coach. “Now go over there and explain all that to your father.”

The Sacrifice

Eleven people were hanging on a rope under a failing helicopter — ten men and one woman. The helicopter was about to crash under their combined weight, and they realized that one of them would have to let go, otherwise all would fall to their deaths.

No one volunteered, though, until the woman spoke.

She said that she would let go of the rope because she was used to giving up everything for her husband and her sons, and was used to sacrificing everything for men in general without getting anything in return.

The men were so touched by her speech that as soon as she finished, they all started clapping.

Hearing problem

Apriest was giving blessings to children outside his church. Billy, 16, walked up and asked him, “Father, can you help me with my hearing?”

“I’ll try,” the priest said. He put his hands over Billy’s ears and prayed. When he removed his hands, he asked, “How is your hearing now?”

“I can’t tell,” Billy said. “It’s not until next Wednesday.”
