HOA President's UPDATES

Pat Lucksinger, HOA President, 518-573-0968

Facebook page: Serendipity Homeowners Association

Here we are in November already. Check the social calendar and see the events coming in the upcoming months. We are honoring the many contracts that we couldn't in the past year and a half. Let's get back to our normal fun times.

November we will have our first HOA meeting after a long hiatus and get back on track. We always meet on the 3rd Tuesday of the month at 7PM in the East clubhouse. I appointed Linda Terenzini as a director with the board's approval until we have our elections. Terry Morlock had to step down as she has family issues to attend to and won't be able to be in FL at this time to participate on the board. A big thank you to Linda Terenzini for taking on the Secretary position also. There's a committee working on new by laws that should be ready to present at this meeting. The committee members are Jerry Zielinski, Linda Terenzini, Debbie Chadwick Genovese, Gail Arnone, Mary Smith Craig, Sandi Thompson, and Dave Hartley.

There will be a brief presentation by the Federation of Mobile Homes Organization (FMO). We need to support this organization so they can continue to fight for mobile home communities.

Again, there will be four vacant positions on the board so think about who a good candidate may be to run for these positions. Election is held at the annual meeting in January. You must have paid your 2022 membership dues to be eligible to vote.

Looking into robo calls and costs so each home would get messages about changes in park schedules, upcoming events etc. This would allow everyone who agrees to get a phone call. Much of our information doesn't reach the residents unless they go to the clubhouses to read bulletin boards. I have a proposal to set up a website so all HOA or needed information is available to anyone who has internet access. This will be proposed to the residents, and we can vote on this.

All residents should share anything they think we need to address at this meeting. We would like a sign placed by both sets of mailboxes so residents will see what's new on that board because again many residents don't go in the clubhouses. We could get a corn hole game or something else residents might like. The board looks for resident suggestions and participation.

Looking forward to normalcy and happy faces and fun times. - Pat

Things That Make You Go...HmMMMMMM?

submitted by Neil Thomas, resident

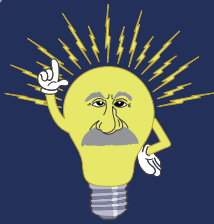

Are We Alone in the Universe?

Are we alone? It's a fundamental question, which has haunted humans since first we realized that the points of light in the night sky are other suns. Today we have the technology to seek a definitive answer!

Since the beginning of civilization, people have wondered if we are alone in the universe or whether there is intelligent life somewhere else. In the late twentieth century, scientists converged upon the basic idea of scanning the sky and "listening" for non-random patterns of electromagnetic emissions such as radio or television waves to detect another possible civilization somewhere else in the universe.

In late 1959 and early 1960, the modern SETI era began. SETI is an acronym for the Search for Extraterrestrial Intelligence. It is an effort to detect evidence of technological civilizations that may exist elsewhere in the universe, particularly in our Galaxy (The Milky Way). With our current technology of detecting electronic signals, we have some ability to discover evidence of beings that are at a technological level at least as advanced as our own. Some of these SETI-related efforts included Project Orion, the Microwave Observing Project, the High-Resolution Microwave Survey, and Toward Other Planetary Systems. The Jodie Foster movie “Contact” was based on the SETI program.

Could humans be the only intelligent beings in all the vastness of the universe? Or are we just one race, a member of a fraternity of advanced civilizations? The Search for Extraterrestrial Intelligence is the scientific effort to answer these unknowns. As of now all we have are questions, but we know the answers, when they come, could transform our world.

And what about other life? Is there -- or was there ever -- anything else alive in our solar system? Did microbes once spring to life on early Mars? Could life have originated on Mars and been transported to Earth? We've never detected evidence for anything living elsewhere than our own planet.

Are we alone? It has been said that if we are alone in the universe, what a terrible waste of space!

THE CURIOSITY CORNER

by Dennis Buehrle

Editor's Note: Armistice: a temporary suspension of hostilities by agreement of the warring parties; truce: World War I ended with the armistice of 1918. (Dictionary.com, 10/15/2021).

Armistice Day

Armistice Day commemorates the armistice that ended the First World War on the 11th hour of the 11th day of the 11th month of the year, in 1918. It was man's first, "World War." The scope of the war was so horrible that it was known for decades as "The War to End All Wars." The phrase is apparently often associated with President Woodrow Wilson. The original phrase, The War That Will End War, appeared as a title of a book by H. G. Wells, containing a series of articles about the war that was critical of Germany. The title became a catch phrase in the second half of 1914. The phrase "The War to End All Wars." has become the more popular variation of the phrase in the last 50 years. In the United States, Armistice Day would later be named in 1954, Veterans Day to honor all veterans

The assassination of Austria's Archduke Franz Ferdinand in Sarajevo, Bosnia would be the catalyst for this great conflict. The assassin wanted Bosnia to be able to separate from the Austro-Hungarian Empire and unite with neighboring Serbia. Germany encouraged Austria to invade Serbia. The invasion initiated a call for help, and because of treaties and suspicions of intent, other European countries were slowly drawn into the conflict.

The military conflicts up to 1914 paled in comparison to what Europe was about to experience. The scale of the impending conflict would be unprecedented, and previously unimaginable or maybe thought of as an "end of days" scenario. The conflict would be a struggle between the great powers of Europe; the Central powers – (Germany, Austria-Hungary, Bulgaria, and Turkey), and the Allied powers – (Britain and Empire, France, Belgium, Russia, Italy, and USA). This war would be considered the first "total war" in which the combatants mobilized all their resources, military, industrial and human, on a scale never before contemplated. Not only would this conflict engulf all of Europe but also extend to parts of Africa and Asia. The entire world became a potential battlefield with much of it affected by this war. The total number of men mobilized by the two sides of this conflict, according to sources, was over 65 million, with an estimated 10 million deaths and 20 million wounded. (Note: Estimated casualty numbers seem to vary widely among references with some much higher.)

Man has been quite inventive when it comes to war. Some of the new instruments of death introduced in this conflict were airplanes, tanks, submarines, flamethrowers, poison gas, and the improved machine gun. Although when World War I is mentioned, it's the image of an endless network of trenches filled with bodies and mud that comes to mind. The early optimism of quick victory faded as trench warfare created an endless demand for men, munitions and supplies with often no apparent gains or victories. The optimistic two-month conflict, dragged on for four and half years. Now with both sides weary of war, riots, and the rumblings of possible revolution in a couple countries, the Central powers sought a truce, peace.

On November 7, 1918, a loud bugle call echoed through the forest as a three-car, German delegation approached the front lines. The delegation informed the front-line soldiers that they wished to discuss terms of surrender with the French commander. Field Marshall Ferdinand Fochs and Gen. John Pershing, initially had no desire to give terms. Eventually, after some sincere begging by the Germans, Field Marshall Fochs gave his, very harsh, terms and the German government had to accept them before November 11, at 11 a.m., or the offer would be withdrawn. The German delegation requested a ceasefire during this period, however, neither Field Marshal Fochs nor General Pershing had much trust in the Germans sincerity. So, until the terms were accepted, hostilities would continue until the agreed upon time.

On November 11, 1918, at 5 a.m., the German government agreed to the terms. Word of the agreement was sent to commanders in the field and that it would take effect at 11 a.m., but no instruction on how to spend the remaining time. To some, it seemed obvious, why waste lives trying to take ground that will be freely given to you in several hours or days. However, others thought it may be their last chance to improve their country's position at the bargaining table, for a promotion, or one last chance for glory. So, after realizing that the armistice had been signed, some Allied commanders decided to continue ongoing attacks or launch new ones, up and down the front lines, sporadic attacks against the enemy took place. It has been stated that artillery, on both sides, after learning of the cease fire around 9 a.m., even increased their rate of fire.

Commonwealth commanders wanted to retake the city where they had lost their first soldier, English Pvt. John Parr on Aug. 21, 1914. After retaking the city, 25-year-old Canadian Pvt. George Lawrence Price, decided to check out homes along the canals while civilians in the center of Mons had already broken out the wine and whiskey, hidden for years from the Germans, to celebrate with the Canadians. With only a couple of minutes to go, a shot pierced the sounds of celebration and Price collapsed.

A Frenchman, named Augustin Trebuchon, 40, was also shot moments before the cease-fire. He was running to tell his friends where and when they would have a meal after the armistice.

Then there is 23-year-old Pvt. Henry Gunther. Gunther, an American of German descent, was drafted and given the rank of sergeant. He was later demoted for writing a letter to a friend complaining about conditions in the trenches and supposedly discouraging him from joining. It is possible he was brooding about his demotion on No. 11th and saw this attack as a means of redemption. He and his fellow soldiers emerged from a bank of fog in front of two machine gun nests. Most of them stopped short as the first rounds zipped overhead, but Gunther continued. The Germans tried to wave him off, after all the war would end in mere minutes. They yelled but he still came on, so... with one last pull of the trigger, a final burst was sent towards Gunther, recognized as the last American to die on the battlefield, time of death 10:59 a.m.

The senseless fighting seen on the morning of Nov. 11th inflicted a total combined casualty count of approx. 11,000. Had Foch and Pershing heeded the appeal from the Germans on Nov. 8th to stop hostilities while the talks took place, thousands of lives would have been saved. Congress later investigated the seemingly senseless waste of lives on the morning of Nov. 11th and found no one culpable for those deaths.

The victors imposed very harsh treaty conditions on Germany. In some ways the conditions were similar to the treatment given towards China in the previous century. British staff officer Archibald Wavell, a future field marshal and viceroy of India, said of the Paris Peace Conference, "After the 'war to end war', they seem to have been pretty successful in Paris at making the 'Peace to end Peace'." The Treaty of Versailles was signed on June 28, 1919, with an effective date of January 1920. It only created animosity towards the victors and sowed the seeds for continuing the war at a later date.

Looking back upon the history of man, there seems to be very few periods of true peace. We appear to be a warring species, with someone always determined to impose their will upon others. A utopian peace is only a fantasy, for history seems to dictate that another conflict looms somewhere in our future. Appreciate and value the beauty around you now.

“Let dreamers dream what worlds they please,

During the war, Canadian Lieutenant Colonel John McCrae, a surgeon for an artillery unit saw a patch of poppies after the second battle of Ypres in 1915. He had tended the wounded and dying, and was very familiar with the hardship, destruction and carnage the war was inflicting upon soldiers. The site of this hardy weed, the poppy, inspired him to write the poem, Flanders Field. The popularity of this poem had spread throughout Europe and the United States before his death, in January 1918, and would become forever associated with World War I.

“In Flanders Fields”

by John McCrae

In Flanders fields the poppies blow
Between the crosses, row on row,
That mark our place; and in the sky
The larks, still bravely singing, fly
Scarce heard amid the guns below.

We are the Dead. Short days ago,
We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
Loved and were loved, and now we lie
In Flanders fields.

Take up our quarrel with the foe:
To you from failing hands we throw
The torch; be yours to hold it high.
If ye break faith with us who die
We shall not sleep, though poppies grow
In Flanders fields.

"...I am so happy with my new windows...I'd like to commend your work crew. Earbie and Larry were fantastic! I couldn't believe the clean-up EVERYDAY! The whole job took just a week even with all the rain delays. I would and WILL highly recommend your company to my friends and neighbors. Of course I won't need to say a word - the house is doing all the talking! Thank you so much for my beautiful new house."
