Note from The HOA Board of Directors:

By now you're a month into 2022. We hope the new year is starting out in a positive way! As we prepared this month's information, our January 4th Monthly meeting was held without new concerns. At the December meeting, we had one resident nominated for the board who wished to run alongside the six board members whose positions are open for reelection. She has since withdrawn her nomination for personal reasons. Our Annual Meeting will be held on January 11th, 2021, where we will recap the last year's progress and elect our six board members by acclamation since only six are running for six positions. We hope to see more residents attend our monthly meetings and become involved in our community.

OTHER BOARD NOTES:

Prevention and Community Awareness Program.

We are finalizing a date with Pinellas County Sheriff's Office to come in and speak with us. Please keep an eye out for the date he will be visiting with Amber Glades. All residents are encouraged and welcomed to join us for the meeting. It should be very educational for each resident.

As your HOA board continues working with park management on improvements and issues within our community, we welcome your suggestions and ideas. If you believe there is an area that could use improvement or if you have an idea, please present it to us. Please reach out to Norman Goldberg or Audrey Lawrence and we will present your suggestion/idea to the board and to Management at our next meeting. As a reminder, if you have a concern that needs to be addressed by park management, first stop by the park office or email them. If you feel you are not receiving results, contact Norman Goldberg. Please keep in mind, at times the office may not be able to immediately provide an answer, or may not be able to "fix it" in the way you were hoping, but in what is best for the community, following Section 723 under Florida statute.

If your dues for 2022 haven't been paid yet, please reach out to Patty Peterman to make your $15 payment. If you haven't previously been a member, we hope you will consider joining in 2022. If you have been a previous member and haven't joined yet, please reconsider being a part of your HOA again this year. We are looking forward to a number of fun events throughout the year and would love to have you join us! Our next regular scheduled board meeting is set for Tuesday, February 2nd at 7p.

As a reminder for residents who are currently animal owners and lovers - Your pet should not be leaving their droppings on other residents' property. This is a direct violation of the Amber Glades Prospectus and Florida Statute and could result in a resident being removed from the community. Please be considerate of other residents' property when walking your pet.

NOTE: The Amber Glades Community Police Officers are from Pinellas County Sheriff's Office. If there is an EMERGENCY, please call 911. If it is a non-emergency, please call 727-582-6200.

FLORIDA ANCHOR AND BARRIER COMPANY

To our valued customers:

During the current times we wanted to let you know that we are taking as many precautions as we can to ensure not only our workers safety but yours as well. We check workers' temperatures each morning and have limited the amount of contact our crews have with each other. Our crews work in Tyvek suits with respirators which helps to ensure your safety as well as theirs.

As a company, we want your business and there is no need for any contact if you so choose. Our business is deemed an "Essential Business" and we are here for you when you need us. You can schedule your inspection by calling 1-800-681-3772.

BRAIN FREEZE STATION

Ice Cream novelties will continue to be sold for $1.00 before each Social Club Meeting. Stop by for a treat between 6-6:45 pm. In February this takes place on Wednesday, February 2, 2022.

Greetings from the Plant Lady

Greetings plant lovers. I hope you had a wonderful holiday and Happy New Year. Chances are you received a Poinsettia for Christmas. Maybe you bought them to decorate with. When the season's finish don't toss them away. Keep them blooming through March. Set them away from direct sunlight and cold drafts, and leave the thermostat set between 65 and 75°. These Mexican natives don't like Winter weather. With the right care, you can keep them growing and blooming for years to come. Once the blooms finish fading, prune the plant back to 8" above the soil. Store in the coolest part of the house for its Winter rest. Water enough to keep the soil barely moist. Bring it out early Spring and place it where it will get indirect sunlight. Move it outdoors to a deck or patio after night's warm up.

If you're in a chilly area, ask for a wrapper the next time you buy a Poinsettia in winter. These tropical flowers don't care for the cold, yet they're sold widely during the Winter season. Have the salesclerk put a protective wrap-around the plant to guide against the cold on the trip home. Chilly temperatures can make plant leaves drop. Remove the wrapper once you get home, though. It will trap Ethylene gas that the plant naturally releases. Ethylene build-up can lead to leaf dropping and curling.

I see lots of people when I'm out in the neighborhood with their plants. Frequently I'm stopped and asked about some plant or flower. I'm always happy to help. If you have a question about a plant or a flower or anything related, please feel free to drop me an email at yaankeegrll@gmail.com. Questions will be answered in next month's newsletter. Happy gardening.

And happy New Year. Debra Santee.

The plant lady 843.290.8884. YAANKEEGRRL@gmail.com

KITCHEN REPORT:

The refrigerator by the front entrance has many items that do not have names on them. All items in the refrigerator, if not marked with a name, are free game to anyone. That also includes the freezer section. Anyone using the kitchen, whether a social function or a private party, is responsible for removing trash from the container before leaving. Rules are posted in several areas in the kitchen. Also, if you use towels and wash cloths, please wash them and return to the kitchen.

FOOD DRIVE NEWS

We are proud to receive a Certificate of Appreciation from the Dunedin Food Bank for being the # 1 HOA donor they have. We are still collecting items to be donated to the food bank every Saturday at noon. For questions or to donate, please contact Liz Johnson, Lot 263, 618/791-6555. Thank you to all of you that donate!!

DID YOU KNOW????????????

There is an ice machine in the laundry room and all residents are welcome to take ice if needed. However, you cannot use all the ice in the machine at one time. You are welcome to fill small containers, but we need to have available ice for social functions.

COMMUNITY KITCHEN:

Many of our residents are unaware of what a beautiful kitchen we have! The Community Center, including the kitchen facilities are available to you, with a deposit to the office, as long as it is not reserved for another function. All we ask is that you leave it as clean as it was when you began your activity. Please contact the office to reserve the Community Center and all its amenities 727-725-1811 (Samantha) or email at ambergldes@mail.com

WALKERS AND WHEELCHAIRS:

We have walkers and wheelchairs available for our Amber Glades community to borrow whenever needed, but we are in need of gently used wheelchairs and walkers to replace some of our aging ones. Please do not drop off any item you wish to donate. If you will please contact Liz Johnson at 618-791-6555 or Linda Bearley at 618-709-3388 and we will arrange to get them from you. If you are in need of either of these items you can also contact Linda or Liz. Thank you.

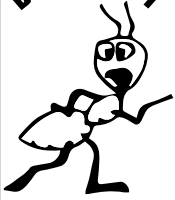

PARK MAIL BOXES

When delivering handouts, we cannot put them in your regular US Mail Box. Because of this, we ask that all residents have some sort of basket or box labeled Park Mail that we can put flyers in about upcoming events and changes. These boxes should be where volunteers can easily access them. If you have questions or need help with getting a box, please contact Pat Peterman at 618/960-9284 or patt74429@yahoo.com – thank you! (We will no longer leave leaflets or Media Guides at those homes with no Park Box.)

Medical Center
A CHENMED COMPANY

Have the Right Doctor? Ask Yourself These 10 Questions.

At Dedicated Senior Medical Center, we're committed to keeping seniors healthy, happy and at home. We understand these are scary times, but we're here to help. Dedicated doctors specialize in caring for seniors and that's why we make it easy for you to see a doctor.

Ask yourself:

1. Is your doctor's office still open?
2. Have you heard from your doctor in the past two weeks?
3. Is your doctor personally calling and texting to check on you?
4. Has your doctor called you to explain your risk of coronavirus?
5. Is your doctor's office offering doctor phone visits?
6. Does your doctor allow walk-in visits?
7. Are you able to call your doctor anytime, day or night?
8. Do you have any difficulty getting to and from your doctor?
9. Is your doctor helping to make sure you receive all of your prescription refills?
10. Is your doctor offering to help you get your medications delivered?

7 Early Warning Signs of Dementia You Shouldn't Ignore

From age 50 on, it's not unusual to have occasional trouble finding the right word or remembering where you put things.

But persistent difficulty with memory, cognition and ability to perform everyday tasks might be signs that something more serious is happening to a loved one's brain.

Dementia isn't actually a disease, according to the Mayo Clinic. It's a catch-all term for changes in the brain that cause a loss of functioning that interferes with daily life. Dementia can diminish focus, the ability to pay attention, language skills, problem-solving and visual perception. It also can make it difficult for a person to control his or her emotions and lead to personality changes.

More than 6 million Americans are living with Alzheimer's dementia, according to the "2021 Alzheimer's Disease Facts and Figures" report from the Alzheimer's Association. Alzheimer's disease is the leading cause of dementia, accounting for 60 percent to 70 percent of cases, but a range of brain illnesses can lead to the condition (see sidebar, "Diseases that cause dementia").

A loved one showing symptoms of dementia needs to see a medical expert who can conduct tests and come up with a diagnosis. If a loved one has dementia, you'll want to plan how you will manage that care, especially as the condition progresses.

But it's also important to rule out other medical conditions with dementia-like symptoms that may disappear with treatment such as infections and side effects of medications.

What to watch for

Here are some of the warning signs identified by dementia experts and mental health organizations:

- Difficulty with everyday tasks. Everyone makes mistakes, but people with dementia may find it increasingly difficult to do things like keep track of monthly bills or follow a recipe while cooking, the Alzheimer's Association says. They also may find it hard to concentrate on tasks, take much longer to do them or have trouble finishing them.
- Repetition. Asking a question over and over or telling the same story about a recent event multiple times are common indicators of mild or moderate Alzheimer's, according to the Cleveland Clinic.
- Communication problems. Observe if a loved one has trouble joining in conversations or following along with them, stops abruptly in the middle of a thought or struggles to think of words or the name of objects.
- Getting lost. People with dementia may have difficulty with visual and spatial abilities. That can manifest itself in problems like getting lost while driving, according to the Mayo Clinic.
- Personality changes. A loved one who begins acting unusually anxious, confused, fearful or suspicious; becomes upset easily; or loses interest in activities and seems depressed is cause for concern.
- Confusion about time and place. Loved ones who forget where they are or can't remember how they got there should raise alarms. Another worrisome sign is disorientation about time — for example, routinely forgetting what day of the week it is, says Jason Karlawish, a professor at the University of Pennsylvania's Perelman School of Medicine and co-director of the Penn Memory Center.

- Troubling behavior. If your family member seems to have increasingly poor judgment when handling money or neglects grooming and cleanliness, pay attention.

Some people who experience memory loss or have difficulty with attention, decision-making language or reasoning may have a condition known as mild cognitive impairment. The condition causes a noticeable decline, but the changes are less severe than with dementia and a person can still perform normal daily activities, according to the Cleveland Clinic.

People with mild cognitive impairment are at an increased risk of developing dementia.

Where to find help

When your loved one is displaying troubling symptoms, a trip to a primary care physician is often the first step. But to get a definitive diagnosis, you'll need to see a specialist such as a neurologist, geriatrician or geriatric psychiatrist.

If you can't find one, the National Institute on Aging recommends contacting the neurology department of a nearby medical school. Some hospitals also have clinics that focus on dementia.

Specialists will want to know about the patient's personal and family medical history. A close relative or relatives having had Alzheimer's is a major risk factor.

Recent research suggests that a prevalence among even members of your extended family can increase your dementia risk. Doctors also will conduct physical and neurological exams to rule out other treatable causes for dementia symptoms.

Some of the methods that doctors use to diagnose dementia:

- Cognitive and neuropsychological tests assess language and math skills, memory, problem-solving and other types of mental functioning.
- Lab tests of blood and other fluids, including checking levels of various chemicals, hormones and vitamins, can help rule out nondementia causes for the symptoms.
- Brain scans such as CT, MRI or PET imaging can spot changes in brain structure and function. These tests also can identify strokes, tumors and other problems that can cause dementia.
- Psychiatric evaluation can determine whether a mental health condition is causing or affecting the symptoms.
- Genetic tests are important, especially if someone is showing symptoms before age 60. The early onset form of Alzheimer's is strongly linked to a person's genes, according to the Mayo Clinic. Talk with a genetic counselor before and after getting tested.

Ailments can mimic dementia

Any number of treatable conditions can cause dementia-like symptoms. Some of the most common:

- Alcohol abuse
- Anxiety, depression or stress
- Blood clots, brain infections or tumors
- Delirium
- Head injuries

- Kidney, liver or thyroid problems
- Side effects of medication
- Vitamin deficiencies

Diseases that cause dementia

These conditions are the leading causes of dementia. Many patients have mixed dementia, a combination of two or more types, such as Alzheimer’s and vascular dementia.

Alzheimer’s disease. Alzheimer’s is characterized by amyloid plaques and tangled fibers in the brain and by a loss of connections between nerve cells. Damage initially appears in the hippocampus, an area of the brain involved in memory formation, and gradually spreads.

Vascular dementia. The second most common type of dementia results from damage to the vessels that supply blood to the brain. It tends to affect focus, organization, problem-solving and speed of thinking more noticeably than Lewy body dementia. Abnormal protein deposits in the brain, called Lewy bodies, affect brain chemistry and lead to problems with behavior, mood, movement and thinking.

Frontotemporal disorders. Degenerative damage to the brain’s frontal and temporal lobes is the most common cause of dementia in people age 65 and younger. Symptoms might include apathy; difficulty communicating, walking or working; emotional changes; and impulsive or inappropriate behaviors.
