"...I am so happy with my new windows...I'd like to commend your work crew. Earbie and Larry were fantastic! I couldn't believe the clean-up EVERYDAY! The whole job took just a week even with all the rain delays. I would and WILL highly recommend your company to my friends and neighbors. Of course I won't need to say a word – the house is doing all the talking! Thank you so much for my beautiful new house."

OCTOBER CALENDAR

American Pharmacists Month. The role pharmacists play in our health, our communities, and our lives has never been more crucial. Take a moment to reflect on their work, appreciate their efforts, and spread the word about the valuable services pharmacists provide.

Cybersecurity Awareness Month. This year's theme, "See Yourself in Cyber," will focus on the "people" part of cybersecurity, providing information and resources to help educate the public and ensure all individuals and organizations make smart decisions, whether on the job, at home, or at school, now and in the future.

Down Syndrome Awareness Month. According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, approximately one in every 772 babies in the United States is born with Down syndrome, making Down syndrome the most common chromosomal condition. About 5,100 babies with Down syndrome are born in the United States each year.

National Substance Abuse Prevention Month. Millions of Americans suffer from substance abuse, which includes underage drinking, alcohol dependency, nonmedical use of prescription drugs, abuse of over-the-counter medications, and illicit drug use. Early intervention helps prevent substance abuse and reduce the negative consequences of addiction before they occur.

Daily

International Coffee Day, Oct. 1. A celebration of coffee, launched in Milan in 2015, this day also is used to promote fair trade coffee and raise awareness of the plight of the coffee growers.

The crucial difference

A heart surgeon took his car to his local garage for a regular service. “So tell me,” said the mechanic, “I’ve been thinking about what we both do for a living, and how you get paid a lot more than me.”

“Yes?” said the surgeon.

“Look at this,” said the mechanic as he opened the hood. “I open it up, check how it’s running, fix the valves, and put it all back together so it works good as new. We basically do the same job, don’t we? But you get paid ten times more than I do. How do you explain that?”

The surgeon thought for a moment, then smiled. “Try it with the engine running.”

First confession

---

After twenty-five years in the same parish, Father O’Riley was retiring. At his retirement dinner, an eminent member of the congregation — a leading politician — had been asked to make a short speech, but he was late. So the priest took it upon himself to fill the time, and stood up to the microphone:

“I remember the first confession I heard here 25 years ago and how it worried me as to what sort of place I’d come to,” Father O’Riley said. “That first confession remains the most troubling I’ve ever heard. The chap confessed that he’d stolen a TV set from a neighbor and lied to the police when questioned, successfully blaming it on a local scallywag. He said that he’d stolen money from his parents and from his employer; that he’d had affairs with several of his friends’ wives; that he’d taken hard drugs.

“However, I’m pleased to say that as the days passed I soon realized that this sad fellow was a frightful exception and that this parish was indeed a wonderful place full of kind and decent people.”

At this point the politician arrived and apologized for being late. Eager to take the stage, he immediately stepped up to the microphone and pulled his speech from his pocket:

“I’ll always remember when Father O’ Riley first came to our parish,” said the politician. “In fact, I’m pretty certain that I was the first person in the parish that he heard in confession ...”

Hearing returned

An elderly gentleman had a serious hearing problem for a number of years. He went to the doctor, who fitted him for a set of hearing aids that help the gentleman’s hearing gradually return to 100%.

The elderly man went back to the doctor a month later for a checkup. The doctor performed some tests, and then said, “Your hearing is perfect. Your family must be really pleased that you can hear again.”

The gentleman smiled. “Oh, I haven’t told my family yet. I just sit around and listen to them talk. I’ve already changed my will three times!”

Seven wonders

A teacher asked her students to make a list of what they considered the seven wonders of the world. After a few minutes of discussion, they came up with this list:

- Egypt's Great Pyramids
- The Taj Mahal
- The Grand Canyon
- The Panama Canal
- The Empire State Building
- St. Peter's Basilica
- The Great Wall of China

The teacher noticed that one young girl hadn't participated. She asked for the girl's own thoughts.

"I couldn't make up my mind," the student said, "because there are so many."

"Why don't you tell us what they are, and maybe we can help you choose?" the teacher suggested.

The girl hesitated, and then read her list:

- To see
- To hear
- To touch
- To taste
- To feel
- To laugh
- To love

Moral: The things we overlook as simple and ordinary, that we take for granted, are the most truly wondrous.

No single answer to leadership

Leadership consultant and blogger Tim Milburn likes to tell this story about the noted leader John C. Maxwell:

As he finished up a speech, Maxwell was approached by a young man with a determined expression on his face: "Dr. Maxwell, what's the one thing I need to know in order to be an effective leader?"

Appreciating the young man's sincerity, Maxwell replied with the same determination: "Young man, the one thing you need to know is that there is more than one thing you need to know."

In anything that counts, success is based on lots of factors. Looking for one simple answer will rarely get you what you need.

The two sons

Two sons worked for their father on the family's farm. The younger brother was steadily given more responsibility over the years, and one day the older brother asked his father to explain why.

The father said, "First, go to Kelly's farm and see if they have any geese for sale. We need to add to our stock."

The brother soon returned. "Yes, they have five geese they can sell us."

The father said, "Good. What's the price?"

The son went back to the farm and returned shortly with the answer: "The geese are $10 each."

The father asked, "Can they deliver the geese tomorrow?"

Again the son went back, and came back soon with the answer: "They can deliver the geese tomorrow."

The father asked the older brother to wait and listen, then called the younger brother in from the fields. "Go to Davidson's farm and see if they have any geese for sale. We need to add to our stock."

The younger brother soon returned with the answer. "They have five geese for $10 each, or ten geese for eight dollars each; and they can deliver them tomorrow. I asked them to deliver the five unless they heard otherwise from us in the next hour. And I agreed that if we want the extra five geese we could buy them at six dollars each."

The father turned to the older son, who nodded. He now realized why his brother was given more responsibility and reward.

Essay test

A teacher called little Johnny to her desk. "This essay you wrote about your dog Spot is the exact same essay your brother wrote word for word. What do you have to say for yourself?"

"Of course it's the same essay," Johnny said. "It's the same dog!"

Conversation starters — or stoppers

Do you ever find yourself at a loss for words? Maybe one of these random comments can add some spice to your conversations:

- As the prophecy foretold.
- But at what cost?
- So let it be written; so let it be done.
- So it has come to this.
- Is this why fate brought us together?
- Just like in my dream.
- Be that as it may, still may it be as it may be.
- There is no escape from destiny.
- Wise words by wise men write wise deeds in wise pen.
- In this economy?
- And then the wolves came.

Halloween is here—are you ready?

Trick or treating is about to commence. Here are some fun facts to share while you're handing out candy:

- The word “witch” comes from an Old English word, “wicce,” meaning “wise woman.”
- Black and orange are associated with Halloween because they're signs of autumn. Orange signifies harvest, and black alludes to darkness coming earlier.
- Jack-o-lanterns are Irish. In an Irish folktale, a man named Stingy Jack fooled the devil and was punished by being forced to walk the Earth with only a burning coal in a hollowed turnip to light his way. "Jack of the Lantern" became "Jack-o-lantern."
- Trick-or-treating has a long history. In medieval times, children would go door to door on All Souls Day, asking for food in exchange for prayers for the inhabitants' deceased family members.
- The most popular kids' Halloween costume is Spider-man. According to the National Retail Federation, it's followed by princesses, Batman, witch, ghost, pumpkin, Superman, zombie, and Avengers hero.

I love Halloween, and I love that feeling; the cold air, the spooky dangers lurking around the corner.

— Evan Peters
