REST IN PEACE, JOANIE

submitted by Pat Reynolds

The year was 2001 when Joan (Joanie) and Bob (Bobby) Bernier became residents and retired to Lake Highlander. Bonnie Circle #85 became known as “the porch”. It was the gathering place. Thanks, Joanie and Bob for all the good times and laughter at #85.

Joanie moved back to Massachusetts this past summer. We were all sorry to see her go, but she knew it was time. Joan is now with her Bobby – hopefully golfing everyday! We were blessed to have such good neighbors and friends. Thank you both for all you did to always help keep our activities going. There are no words to say how grateful we were to have you here. You were the best! Good-bye from a grateful Lake Highlander and Bonnie Circle!

THE LAKE HIGHLANDER PIPER IS COMING TO AN END

by Editor, JoLynn Kendzora

This isn't easy for me to do, but with all the technology we have at our fingertips – email, text, Facebook – I am finding that by the time the Piper is published, the information about park events and such, has already been out there for all to see via the Monday E-notes, the website Newsletter (which comes via email at the same time as the E-notes), and Facebook. Without the birthdays and anniversaries, there really is no point in doing the Piper.

Because the Enotes and website Newsletter comes via email, please make sure the office has your email address, and if you're not on Facebook, please consider doing it – just for the Lake Highlander site if you don't want Facebook for other things. There really is a lot of nice information on our Facebook page.

Mike Borgan is the one who does the E-notes and the website Newsletter, so if you have any information that you would normally send to me, please send it to Mike via email at mborgan@netzero.net. If you need to contact him, his number is 616-283-8981. (If you're not getting the website Newsletter, please ask Mike how to get it.)

I have thoroughly enjoyed doing your newsletter for the past 2 ½ years, got to meet many many residents because of it, and I will miss that contact. Thanks for allowing me to do it, and I will see you out there!

Publishers Note:

Monthly Media has published The Lake Highlander Piper (at no cost to your community) for decades and we very much want to continue providing a printed version for all the community residents. A printed newsletter showcases important community events and activities, as well as shares messages from dozens of businesses that provide valuable products and services for the Lake Highlander residents. Digital and e-mail newsletter alternatives are convenient and they are a great compliment to the printed version, we publish this newsletter online too. However, a digital only newsletter as a replacement to this printed version might leave some residents in the dark.

The printed Lake Highlander Piper provides the following:

- Familiar formatted community news ready for you to read
- No websites or cluttered e-mail in-boxes to comb through to find your community news
- Relevant businesses who offer specialized services for your home and lifestyle
- Puzzles and games for you to enjoy throughout the month
- Monthly Media's Emporium page where we showcase home goods for sale, other Pinellas County community events for you to visit (craft fairs, bake sales, etc.), and many other great classified listings

If you would like to keep Lake Highlander specific info published in this newsletter please let your community leaders know!

THE FUNNIES

While on maneuvers in the Mojave Desert, our convoy got lost, forcing our lieutenant to radio for help. “Are you near any landmarks that might help us locate you?” the base operator asked. “Yes,” said the lieutenant. “We are directly under the moon.”

An undertaker notified a man on vacation that his father-in-law had died, and asked whether he should bury, embalm or cremate him. The answer was quick: “Take no chances. All three.”

Acupuncture is a jab well done.

Why did the dinosaur cross the road? Because the chicken hadn’t evolved yet.

I used to believe that the brain is the most important organ. But then I thought, “Hey, look who’s telling me that.”

The FDA is launching a new campaign against teen vaping, because we all know if there’s one way to get kids to stop smoking, it’s hearing from all those cool cats at the Food and Drug Administration.

I just got fired from my job at the keyboard factory. They said I wasn’t putting in enough shifts.

A golfer walks off the 18th green, hands his putter to the caddie and says, “Kid, you’ve got to be the worst caddie in the world.” The caddie replies, “Sir, that would be a coincidence”.

Want to hear a roof joke? The first one’s on the house!

A Sunday School teacher was describing to the class how Lot’s wife looked back and suddenly turned into a pillar of salt. “My mother looked back once while she was driving,” said one boy, “and she turned into a telephone pole.”

One employee complained to another, “I’m so nearsighted I nearly worked myself to death.” “What’s being nearsighted got to do with that?” the other employee asked. “I couldn’t tell if the boss was watching me or not, so I had to work all the time.”

A police officer pulled a driver over and asked to see her license. After looking it over, he said to her, “Ma’am, it says here on your license that you should be wearing glasses.” “Well, I have contacts,” the woman replied. “Look, lady, I don’t care who you know,” the officer snapped. “You’re getting a ticket.”

"...I am so happy with my new windows...I'd like to commend your work crew. Earbie and Larry were fantastic! I couldn't believe the clean-up EVERYDAY! The whole job took just a week even with all the rain delays. I would and WILL highly recommend your company to my friends and neighbors. Of course I won't need to say a word - the house is doing all the talking! Thank you so much for my beautiful new house."

A man tried to sell me a coffin today. I told him that's the last thing I need.

I tried to type "functional adult" the other day, but my phone autocorrected it to "fictional adult." I feel like that's more accurate.

As a woman was watching a soap opera, her husband asked, "How can you cry over imaginary problems of people you've never met?" She replied, "For the same reason you scream and yell when a man you don't know makes a touchdown."

A prescription that came in handy

A doctor recalls that one of his colleagues once wrote a prescription with the same degree of legibility that most prescriptions employ.

The patient proceeded over the next three years to use the prescription as a train pass; he used it twice to get into the Metropolitan Opera. It also came in handy as a letter of recommendation, from whence he acquired a new and better paying job. But the grand finale was when he gave it to a piano student, who played it beautifully, and won a scholarship to Juilliard.

The case of the thrifty widow

There was once a thrifty widow who wanted the town's most venerable minister to perform the eulogy for her husband.

The minister said that he would be delighted to deliver a rousing eulogy that would enshrine her dearly departed to all who heard his words — for $500.

The thrifty widow thought for a moment and asked the minister if he could do the eulogy for less.

The minister replied that he could do a rather nice piece on her husband that would bring the audience to tears and keep her husband in their hearts for years to come—for $250.

The widow thought about this for a moment and asked the minister if he could do the eulogy for $75.

The minister said that he would be happy to do the eulogy, “but for that price, I will be forced to tell the truth about your husband.”

A little horn humor

Did you hear about the French horn player whose toupee fell into his instrument? He spent the rest of the night blowing his top.

A manual for life

At birth, there is a manual for life that is given to each of us. Here it is:

1. You have received a body. It will be yours for the duration of your stay this time around. You may or may not like it, but it is yours.
2. Pay attention to the lessons to be learned. You are enrolled in a school that is full time and informal—it is called life. In your school, you will have chances to learn lessons. You are free to like the lessons or think that they are very stupid.
3. Keep in mind that there are no mistakes, just lessons to be learned. You will be involved with a process of trial and error, and this process will, with luck, incite growth. The “failures” you experience will be as much a part of your process as the parts of your life that “succeed.”
4. You will repeat the same lesson, in its various forms, until it is learned. Then you will be free to go on to the next lesson.
5. Your learning in life is never over. As long as you are alive, there are lessons to be learned. There is no part of life that does not contain a lesson for you.
6. Places other than where you are will always look better to you, but this is a trick of the mind. It is never better to be other than what and where you are at the time. But it will always feel like you should be someplace else, be something else in order to find “happiness.”
7. Your fellow beings are merely reflections of yourself. Whatever you love or hate about them is exactly what you love or hate about yourself.
8. What you make of life is up to you. You have everything you need to live life. What you do and how you live is up to you.
9. The answers to life’s questions are within you. You just need to listen and trust your inner knowledge.
10. You will forget you have been told all of this.

Want to have more energy and feel better? Try this

Are you grateful for what you have in life? Do you recognize what you have? Many people don't, so how do you go about being more mindful of the good things in your life? According to some experts, keeping a "gratitude journal," in which you list the good things that you are grateful for in your life, might be a good way to start. In a study of those who kept gratitude journals, Robert Emmons, a professor of psychology at University of California, found that those who wrote down what they were grateful for were more optimistic and felt better on the whole than those who wrote down what was bothering them or just wrote down neutral observations about their lives. So buy a journal, sit down and ponder the good things you have going for you and write them down.

What to do when someone pushes your buttons

Everyone knows someone who knows how to get him or her going. There is always a person in life who seems to possess an almost uncanny knowledge of what will put you over the edge—and it becomes that person's goal to do just that. This person can be your co-worker, your spouse, your mother, your child, even a perceptive stranger on a train.

The first step in dealing with these types of people and situations is to develop awareness of how you react. Do you crawl inside yourself to hide when someone roughs up your emotions? Do you become aggressive out of fear? Everyone's reaction to the fear and anger caused when someone pushes their buttons will be different. When you see the pattern of how you react, you are on your way to healing.

The next step is to develop a curiosity about your reaction. Is it linked to your past? What does it tell you about yourself? When you understand what you are reacting to, you will realize that people who push your buttons can teach you a lot about yourself.

After you have gathered this information, then you need to develop a way to pause for a moment when your button is pushed. Give yourself that moment of time to stop an automatic reaction. Let your awareness build—try exercises such as thinking, "I am feeling very angry right now" or "This is how I used to feel when my brother tried to tell me how to live my life." Take a deep breath and use the moment to avoid immediate reaction and you will be on your way to developing not only a deeper understanding of yourself, but of something universally human. One of the great Tibetan teachings, or mind-heart trainings known as lojong, is "Be grateful to everyone." Pema Chodon, a Buddhist nun and author of Start Where You Are: A Guide to Compassionate Living, says: "The slogan 'Be grateful to everyone' is about making peace with the aspects of ourselves that we have rejected. Through doing that, we also make peace with people we dislike. More to the point, being around people we dislike is often a catalyst for making friends with ourselves. Thus, 'Be grateful to everyone.'"
