Shady Lane Oaks September 2023 information

DebTompkins – Social Director – sloactivities@hotmail.com – 610-357-4148

Hello Residents,

Fall is here! We are in full swing of pumpkin spice everything, the holidays approaching, welcoming our snowbirds back, and just the most beautiful weather you could ever ask for. I want to start the fast-approaching holiday season with what I am thankful for. I am so thankful for the staff that works so hard each day to bring you the best that we can. I am so thankful for each one of you that takes pride in their home and wants it to look the best that it can for all to enjoy. With that being said, our winners of Yard of the Month for October were Lot 119 in the Oaks and Lot 1120 in the Village, from pumpkins to pelicans, we have it all here at Shady Lane Communities and we love it. I am so thankful for all the residents that greet us and their neighbors with a warm smile each time our path's cross. As the holiday season approaches, I hope we all take time to be thankful and look to the future with positivity and hopeful New Year vibes. From all of us, to all of you and your families, we wish you a great holiday season filled with happiness and joy.

Park News: CapX will not have approvals for new work until after the New Year, so you will see a slow down on vendor projects until then. Please be mindful of your tags expiring on your home at the end of the year (if this applies to you) and keeping up with any work needing done from your 360. Lots of residents said they wanted to wait until cooler weather to get outside and tackle those jobs, so just let us know when completed and we will come on out and see your handy work. Both parks are looking great, and we appreciate all the effort. Lastly, we will be working on updating our office records for a possible audit, so we may ask you for your updated driver's license and/or proof of vaccinations for your pets. If we ask, please make every effort to get us what we need, as soon as possible, so we can get back to working on projects for all of you.

Thanks for being here!

A manual for life

At birth, there is a manual for life that is given to each of us. Here it is:

1. You have received a body. It will be yours for the duration of your stay this time around. You may or may not like it, but it is yours.
2. Pay attention to the lessons to be learned. You are enrolled in a school that is full time and informal—it is called life. In your school, you will have chances to learn lessons. You are free to like the lessons or think that they are very stupid.
3. Keep in mind that there are no mistakes, just lessons to be learned. You will be involved with a process of trial and error, and this process will, with luck, incite growth. The “failures” you experience will be as much a part of your process as the parts of your life that “succeed.”
4. You will repeat the same lesson, in its various forms, until it is learned. Then you will be free to go on to the next lesson.
5. Your learning in life is never over. As long as you are alive, there are lessons to be learned. There is no part of life that does not contain a lesson for you.
6. Places other than where you are will always look better to you, but this is a trick of the mind. It is never better to be other than what and where you are at the time. But it will always feel like you should be someplace else, be something else in order to find “happiness.”
7. Your fellow beings are merely reflections of yourself. Whatever you love or hate about them is exactly what you love or hate about yourself.
8. What you make of life is up to you. You have everything you need to live life. What you do and how you live is up to you.
9. The answers to life’s questions are within you. You just need to listen and trust your inner knowledge.
10. You will forget you have been told all of this.

Reflections on hangovers and their cures

With the holiday party season upon us, it might be useful to reflect on the subject of the hangover.

According to Harold McGee, author of On Food and Cooking: The Science and Lore of the Kitchen, remedies for hangovers go back to ancient times. McGee says that as far back as medieval times, hair of the dog was being recommended by the medical school of Salerno: “If an evening of wine does you in, more the next morning will be medicine.”

McGee says that the logic of this prescription is that the person who overimbibes is actually going through a slight withdrawal from drugs. That means, generally, that the longer you feel high and continue to drink, the worse you’re going to feel the next day. There are probably millions who can verify this supposition. So it goes, that if you have a drink the next morning, you are giving the body what it got used to the night before, and you will feel slightly better from halting the withdrawal and mildly anesthetizing yourself.

However, this remedy comes with a caveat: You will at some time have to go through the withdrawal, so you are merely postponing the consequences by having another drink (one should also consider that repeating this over time can also lead to alcoholism).

Caffeine-laden drinks can reverse the effects of alcohol on the cranial blood vessels (alcohol enlarges them and caffeine shrinks them). This may help eliminate headaches due to alcohol consumption. Drinking liquids can also help restore fluid to the body, which has been lost due to dehydration when drinking. Eating carbohydrates can also help the body recover from the fatigue and malaise you may feel. Exercise may also help speed up the removal of the drug from the body. But generally speaking, and sad news for many, most hangovers must be treated by the passage of time.

You can get moving without going to the gym

If you want to get in shape, make it your business to move around more. This doesn’t mean you have to do a “real workout,” it just means that you need to make a conscious effort to make “action-enhancing” decisions. Here are a few suggestions for getting on the move:

- Take the stairs, not the elevator or escalator.
- After lunch, take a walk with a friend instead of sitting around the lunch table gabbing.
- Mow your lawn, and stop waiting for someone else to take care of it.
- Plant flowers.
- Play hide and seek with your kids.
- Take your dog for a walk.

The main point here is to move around more than your norm. If you’re living a sedentary life, now’s the time to break the pattern. Once you do, you’ll feel your energy start to increase — and you’ll be glad you did.

Bringing her home to meet the folks

A young philosophy student brought home his fiancée, a theology student, to meet his parents. All four of them sat in the living room for a chat and after a while the mother excused herself and her son went along with her to help in the kitchen.

The father asked the girl how the two of them planned on earning their bread in the world. The girl, who was quite religious, said, “I’m not sure—but God will provide us with all we need.”

The father asked the girl if they had been able to save enough money from their side jobs to survive the first few months of being on their own and buy a car. The girl answered that they had not, but that she was absolutely sure that God would provide them with whatever they would need.

The father asked her where they planned on living after graduation, and the girl once again answered that she did not know but that she was sure that God would take care of everything for them.

The mother and son returned to the room and announced that dinner was being served and the conversation was ended. Later, after the young couple had left, the mother asked the father, “Well, what did you think of Sally?”

“Well, I’m not really sure,” said the father. “She doesn’t seem to understand how the world works, and she and Hank have not made a plan for their future—but on the other hand, she seems to think that I’m God.”

Waiter, please...

A guest of a resort hotel in a tourist area walked into the dining room where breakfast was being served. The guest sat down at a table and called a waiter to take his order.

“I would like two eggs, over easy, one with the yolk overcooked and rubbery and the other under cooked with the yolk broken and running out on the plate. I would also like some sausage that has been grilled and set out on the plate to get cold, burnt toast that has also grown cold so that it crunches and crumbles into nothing at the first bite, and butter that has been in the freezer so that it is impossible to spread, and a pot of coffee that is lukewarm and very weak.”

The waiter busily scratched down the guest’s order and said, “This is a very complicated order, sir. It might be difficult to deliver it exactly as you have requested.”

The guest replied, “But I had that exact breakfast here yesterday!”

A prescription that came in handy

A doctor recalls that one of his colleagues once wrote a prescription with the same degree of legibility that most prescriptions employ.

The patient proceeded over the next three years to use the prescription as a train pass; he used it twice to get into the Metropolitan Opera. It also came in handy as a letter of recommendation, from whence he acquired a new and better paying job. But the grand finale was when he gave it to a piano student, who played it beautifully, and won a scholarship to Juilliard.

The case of the thrifty widow

There was once a thrifty widow who wanted the town's most venerable minister to perform the eulogy for her husband.

The minister said that he would be delighted to deliver a rousing eulogy that would enshrine her dearly departed to all who heard his words — for $500.

The thrifty widow thought for a moment and asked the minister if he could do the eulogy for less.

The minister replied that he could do a rather nice piece on her husband that would bring the audience to tears and keep her husband in their hearts for years to come—for $250.

The widow thought about this for a moment and asked the minister if he could do the eulogy for $75.

The minister said that he would be happy to do the eulogy, “but for that price, I will be forced to tell the truth about your husband.”

A little horn humor

Did you hear about the French horn player whose toupee fell into his instrument? He spent the rest of the night blowing his top.

On marriage

After a few years of marriage, a man can look right at a woman without seeing her and a woman can see right through a man without looking at him.

— Helen Rowland

Which dog will you feed?

There was once a young girl who went to her grand-mother's house, and it was her custom to ask her grandmother many questions about life.

One day the young girl came into the grandmother's cozy little house with a look of pure rage on her face.

"What has happened, little one?" the grandmother asked softly. The anger immediately left the girl's face, and she crumpled into a sobbing mass of tears.

The girl recounted her day to her grandmother. "I went to the store today, and while I was there I bought the most beautiful hair barrette. I had saved my money so that I could buy it. It was shiny and beautiful and something I wanted very badly."

"And then what happened," the kindly grandmother asked.

"Well, I went outside and was admiring my new barrette in the sunlight when three girls who I know from school came up to me. They started laughing at me and saying that I was ugly, then one of the girls pushed me down to the ground and another girl pulled the barrette from my hand. They said I was too ugly for such a beautiful thing." The girl stopped and the anger and rage returned to her face. "I hate those girls. I hate them more than anything in the world."

The old grandmother, who had been in the world for a long time, wrapped her arms warmly around her granddaughter.

"There, there," the old woman said. "I, too, have felt what you're feeling when people have taken things from me with no remorse or regret. But these feelings will wear you down and wear you out. It is like drinking a cup of poison in hope that it will make your enemy die, but in the end the poison will only hurt you. I have had these same feelings many times in life. It is as if there are two dogs inside of me. One is always good and does no harm. He is loyal and lives in harmony with me. He does not take offense in life, when it does no good to do so. He will fight when the time is right, and fight nobly, but if it would be to no avail he lets it go. The other dog is full of anger. The least little thing makes him go off, and he is ready to fight. He wants to fight everyone all the time and he doesn't really have to have a reason for the fight. His anger keeps him from thinking. His anger is helpless and will change nothing. It is hard to live with these two animals inside of me — both of them are always trying to win."

"Which one wins, grandmother?" the little girl asked.

"Ah," said the old woman, "it is always the one I feed."

On impact

If you think you're too small to have an impact, try going to bed with a mosquito.

— Anita Roddick
