FALL FUN AT SILK OAK LODGE

Saturday night, October 14, saw lots of laughter and good food in the Silk Oak Clubhouse! Neighbors gathered to enjoy good food, dancing, music and karaoke. The menu, catered by Gersky's Café and Pastry, consisted of Bavarian favorites: Schnitzel with garlic mashed potatoes, Bratwurst with peppers, onion and sauerkraut, topped off with delicious cherry and apple Strudel. The event was funded by the HOA. The party went into the night.

Our thanks to those who helped the fun, and especially the cleanup 😊 go smoothly!

Our next celebration will be Saturday, October 28 for Halloween! Bring your favorite TREAT to share.

WE HOPE TO SEE YOU THERE.

p.s. Watch for Thanksgiving news in the Clubhouse and in our Silk Oak Facebook page!

Bringing her home to meet the folks

A young philosophy student brought home his fiancée, a theology student, to meet his parents. All four of them sat in the living room for a chat and after a while the mother excused herself and her son went along with her to help in the kitchen.

The father asked the girl how the two of them planned on earning their bread in the world. The girl, who was quite religious, said, “I’m not sure—but God will provide us with all we need.”

The father asked the girl if they had been able to save enough money from their side jobs to survive the first few months of being on their own and buy a car. The girl answered that they had not, but that she was absolutely sure that God would provide them with whatever they would need.

The father asked her where they planned on living after graduation, and the girl once again answered that she did not know but that she was sure that God would take care of everything for them.

The mother and son returned to the room and announced that dinner was being served and the conversation was ended. Later, after the young couple had left, the mother asked the father, “Well, what did you think of Sally?”

“Well, I’m not really sure,” said the father. “She doesn’t seem to understand how the world works, and she and Hank have not made a plan for their future—but on the other hand, she seems to think that I’m God.”

Waiter, please...

A guest of a resort hotel in a tourist area walked into the dining room where breakfast was being served. The guest sat down at a table and called a waiter to take his order.

“I would like two eggs, over easy, one with the yolk overcooked and rubbery and the other under cooked with the yolk broken and running out on the plate. I would also like some sausage that has been grilled and set out on the plate to get cold, burnt toast that has also grown cold so that it crunches and crumbles into nothing at the first bite, and butter that has been in the freezer so that it is impossible to spread, and a pot of coffee that is lukewarm and very weak.”

The waiter busily scratched down the guest’s order and said, “This is a very complicated order, sir. It might be difficult to deliver it exactly as you have requested.”

The guest replied, “But I had that exact breakfast here yesterday!”

A prescription that came in handy

A doctor recalls that one of his colleagues once wrote a prescription with the same degree of legibility that most prescriptions employ.

The patient proceeded over the next three years to use the prescription as a train pass; he used it twice to get into the Metropolitan Opera. It also came in handy as a letter of recommendation, from whence he acquired a new and better paying job. But the grand finale was when he gave it to a piano student, who played it beautifully, and won a scholarship to Juilliard.

The case of the thrifty widow

There was once a thrifty widow who wanted the town's most venerable minister to perform the eulogy for her husband.

The minister said that he would be delighted to deliver a rousing eulogy that would enshrine her dearly departed to all who heard his words — for $500.

The thrifty widow thought for a moment and asked the minister if he could do the eulogy for less.

The minister replied that he could do a rather nice piece on her husband that would bring the audience to tears and keep her husband in their hearts for years to come—for $250.

The widow thought about this for a moment and asked the minister if he could do the eulogy for $75.

The minister said that he would be happy to do the eulogy, “but for that price, I will be forced to tell the truth about your husband.”

A little horn humor

Did you hear about the French horn player whose toupee fell into his instrument? He spent the rest of the night blowing his top.

On marriage

After a few years of marriage, a man can look right at a woman without seeing her and a woman can see right through a man without looking at him.

— Helen Rowland
