ANNUAL HOA MEETING

The next HOA Board Meeting will be on Tuesday, January 9, 2024, at 7:00 pm. This will be our ANNUAL MEETING where any elections of Directors will be held. Directors are elected to a three-year term. You must be a member of the HOA in good standing to run for a Director position. If you are interested in running, please contact one of the current Board members.

The next Social Committee Meeting will be on Wednesday, January 3, 2024. The Social Committee will again have a Coach Drawing. Tickets are 3 for $1. Half the money is given out and half is put into the coach drawing. If the resident drawn for the coach drawing is not present, the money rolls over until the next meeting. Lot 64 was drawn at the December meeting and was not present, so the money has rolled over.

2024 HOA Dues ($15) will be due beginning January. You can either put a check or envelope with cash in the dues box by the sliding door at the clubhouse or give it to Pat Peterman, Lot 205, 618-960-9284. You must be a HOA member to attend monthly HOA meetings and vote on issues and in elections.

Notes from the HOA Board of Directors

NOTICE: This year in January at the Annual Meeting, there will be two (2) positions up for election to the HOA Board of Directors. Any member of the HOA can run for one of these positions. If you would like to lend your talents to this endeavor, please contact one of the current board members so your name can be given to the Nominating Committee.

Some of you may have heard that management is installing card key readers in both the Exercise Room and Pool gates. The readers will not be activated until everyone is notified by the office and residents are given time to obtain a new card if they don't have one. The same cards used for the outside gates will work on these readers. We expressed concern over the pool gates being difficult to use and found that once the card activates the reader, the gate will open automatically.

In other Board news, we thank the Social Committee for the wonderful activities in November and December. Residents went on a Poker run on Nov. 18. Winners were 1st Ashley Knight with a full house. Tom Schnite came in 2nd and Pete Richards came in third.

Our next activity was a wonderful Thanksgiving dinner attended by over 70 residents. The food was really good as usual and everyone enjoyed the chance to celebrate with our friends and family.

November 25, 2023 brought us the Annual Michigan vs Ohio State football party. We had our biggest crowd ever and everyone enjoyed the rivalry. A chili cookoff was held and winners were 1st Hazel Holladay, 2nd Linda Bearley and 3rd Kathy Otting. Half-time brought chili and hot dogs for all.

December 2 brought a Craft Festival to our clubhouse. There were many amazing items for sale and everyone enjoyed shopping "locally". Thank you to Randi Sandford for sponsoring this event. There's no question that it was a big success and between toys and money, we made a wonderful donation to Toys for Tots.

On December 3rd, several of us decorated the clubhouse for Christmas. I think the few who helped did a good job creating a festive atmosphere.

December 5th was a fun day for many residents in the park. Randi Sandford sponsored a "Mystery Lunch" that took us to The Kitchen in Dundedin where we enjoyed a nice lunch and visited with our friends and neighbors.

There are several more December activities but due to the holidays, the Media Guide changes for January must go to printer early.

During the December 6 Social Club Meeting, Liz Johnson was awarded the Clara Leahy award to recognize her many years of blood, sweat and tears and time helping the HOA and Social Committee. Everyone agreed that the award was well-deserved.

AMBER GLADES CHRISTMAS DECORATING CONTEST

Management will once again have a park Christmas decorating contest. Judging will be scheduled for December 12, so make sure your lights are on by 5:30 pm.

Jokes of the Month

(by Ken Spellman)

After 10 years, a wife started to think their child looks kinda strange so she had a DNA test done and found out that the child was not theirs. She told her husband and he replied “You don’t remember, do you? When we were leaving the hospital, the baby pooped and you told me to go and change him so I went inside and got a clean one and left the dirty one there”. The wife fainted.

A young man shopping in a supermarket noticed a little old lady following him around. If he stopped, she stopped. Furthermore, she kept staring at him. She finally overtook him and said “I hope I haven’t made you feel ill at ease. It’s just you look so much like my late son”. He answered, “that’s ok.” “I know it’s silly but if you would call out Goodbye Mum as I leave the store, it would make me feel so happy”. She went through checkout and as she was on her way out of the store, the man called out, “Goodbye Mum”. The little old lady smiled and waved back at him. Pleased that he had brought a little sunshine into someone’s day, he went to pay for his shopping. “That comes to $121.85” said the checker. “How come so much? I only bought 3 items.” The clerk replied, “Yeah, but you Mother said you would pay for her things too”.

An older man placed an order for one hamburger, French fries and a drink. He unwrapped the plain hamburger and carefully cut in half, placing one half in front of his wife. He then carefully counted out the French fries into two piles and neatly placed one pile in front of his wife. He took a sip of the drink his wife took a sip and then set down the cup between them. As he began to eat his few bites of the hamburger the people around them were looking over and whispering. Obviously they were thinking, that poor old couple – all they can afford is one meal for two of them. As the man began to eat his fries, a young man came to the table and politely offered to buy another meal for the old couple. The old man said they were just fine-they were used to sharing everything. People closer to the table noticed the little old lady hadn’t eaten a bite. She sat there watching her husband eat and occasionally taking turns sipping the drink. Again, the young man came over and begged them to let him buy another meal for them. This time the old woman said, no thank you, we are used to sharing everything. Finally as the old man finished and was wiping his face neatly with the napkin, the young man again came over to the little old lady who had yet to eat a single bite of food and asked, “What is it you are waiting for”? She answered, “My turn for the teeth”.

The teenage granddaughter comes downstairs for her date with this see-through top on. Her Grandmother just had a fit, telling her not to dare go out like that. The teenager tells her Grandmother to loosen up, these are modern times and you gotta let your rosebuds show and out she goes. The next day the teenager comes downstairs, and the Grandmother is sitting there with no top on. The teenager wants to die. She explains to her Grandmother that she has friends coming over and that it is just not appropriate. Loosen up sweetie said the Grandmother – if you can show off your rosebuds, then I can display my hanging baskets.

SEARCHING FOR A JOB ONLINE! WATCH FOR SCAMS

Criminals pose as fraudulent employers, seeking your money and personal info. After losing a job in her field of veterinary pharmaceutical sales last year, Marci Strouch, 47, of Delray Beach, Florida, did what most other job seekers do these days: She began visiting online job-search websites, where you can apply for positions and connect with employers who are interested in your skills and experience.

It wasn't long before Strouch received a text message from someone claiming to represent a major medical lab company who asked if she'd be interested in a job there. Although the position was in data entry rather than pharmaceutical sales, "It was really good paying, full benefits, work from home—you know all those things," she recalls. She decided to go for it.

But then things began to get weird. The supposed recruiter asked Strouch if she had Skype, and connected her with a hiring manager to do a job interview right then and there. Taken aback, Strouch responded that she wasn't camera ready, so the hiring manager agreed to a test exchange instead. But the manager's odd syntax – "the English wasn't even correct," she says – made her uneasy. She quickly did a Google search on the firm sent it to the hiring manager, who suddenly went silent.

While job-search websites can be valuable tools, they're also attractive hunting grounds for scammers who pose as legitimate employers, then draw their victims into various schemes. Their goal: to get job seekers' personal information or money, or to make them unwitting partners in crime.

In 2022, victims of business and job opportunity scams filed reports with the Federal Trade Commission on losses of $367 million – up almost 76 percent from 2021 – with a medium loss of $2,000. They are among the top five most common scams reported to the agency last year – the Fraudulent Five as the FTC puts it.

How fake-employer scams work. While job opportunity scams have been around for many years, they accelerated during the pandemic, when virtual job interviews for remote, work-at-home positions became more common, according to Better Business Bureau spokesperson Josh Planos. Without an in-person meeting, it's easier for scammers to pass themselves off as legitimate employers. "If you put yourself in the shoes of the scammers, the last thing they would want is for you to meet them in person, or to see them," Planos says.

"What's the easiest way to avoid that? You stage the interview remotely, where you have a virtual position available." And because interviewing for a job often requires filling out an application with personal information, "this is a great place to do identity theft", says Steve Baker, a former FTC official who now publishes the Baker Fraud Report newsletter.

But many fake employers simply focus on taking job seekers money. They might require an applicant to spend thousands of dollars purchasing specialized equipment, such as a laptop and software, from a specified online vendor. Sometimes they'll even send the applicant a check to cover the amount, but in reality, "It's a fake check scam" Baker explains. The crooks know the applicant's bank will credit to their account for one or two days, which gives the confidence to purchase the supposed equipment. Eventually, the fake employer's check merchandise overseas. What the workers don't realize is that the goods have been purchased with stolen credit cards, and that they're helping thieves cover their tracks. The criminals "order something from Amazon, and then have it shipped to 'Fred,'" says Baker, offering a potential scenario where Fred is the new hire. "Fred's job is to receive the goods, then package them and take a picture to show that he did, and then send them off to someplace like Russia." Not only is Fred assisting in a crime, Baker adds, "he doesn't ever get paid".

Other fake employers hire work-at-home employees to receive, repackage and resend their

A NEW TWIST: Resume-formatting scams: The BBB recently warned about a new twist on the scam that involves criminals reaching out to people on LinkedIn and suggesting that they apply for a certain job. If you send your resume, the supposed recruiter directs you to a website where you can reformat it so it's compatible with the company's applicant tracking system. Then when you visit the website, you find out you'll need to submit personal information and make a payment for the service. If you accept, you will receive a "formatted" resume that doesn't look much different from your original resume – if you receive anything at all. It's all a scam to get your money and personal details.

PREVENTING JOB-OPPORTUNITY SCAMS: Job search websites promise they are working hard to chase out scammers. Indeed.com for example, notes on its site, "We have several teams across the globe dedicated to the safety and authenticity of the jobs posted on our platform," and offers tips for a safe job search. LinkedIn, the professional networking site that's become a major player in job searches as well, recommends that job seekers take advantage of the "About this profile" feature added last year that allows them to see when a recruiter's profile was created and last updated, and whether the recruiter's email address is verified. "Even with the number of today's career marketplace," says Keith Spencer, a career expert at the job search site FlexJobs, "With this in mind, job seekers should always do their due diligence, especially when looking for work-from-home roles".

Strouch, who's working as a bartender while she continues to search for a job in her professional field, says she still gets text messages from people who claim to be employers, but she's much more wary now. Often she just doesn't respond anymore.
