Yvonne D'Angelo, President

What a Fall we have had!! November brings us closer to the holiday season and hopefully the end of storm season. It was truly heartwarming to see our residents pull together and help each other out during hurricane Milton and its aftermath. We are a strong and caring community. Thank you to all who helped with cleanup and repairs post storm. Now we look forward Thanksgiving with family and friends. We have so much to be thankful for this year!!

Activities

Marianne Olson

Happy November!

As of the date we submit this article, we will have gone through 2 hurricanes. Some of us were extremely fortunate and received little damage and others were hit with major damage. Our hearts go out to everyone. If you see a neighbor needs a hand please try to help if you can. If you know of someone specifically that needs help, please let any of us on the activities committee know. Now is the time to come together and support one another.

We are anticipating a successful Craft Fair.

We had a great full breakfast last month and are looking forward to a great menu this month. Halloween is always a fun time of year and as of the date we submit this article, we anticipate a festive Halloween dance with band and a fun golf cart parade with reception.

November events are:

Nov. 5. Breakfast 8:30 -10:30

Nov. 9 Cheeseburger in Paradise Party 1:00 pm

Nov. 27 Thanksgiving to go!

Cheeseburger in Paradise party will be a tropical theme outside at the pavilion and pool area. Thanksgiving to go, we are working out the details on, but will be similar to last year with take-out meals picked up Weds. before Thanksgiving. More information to come on both events!

Carport Sale

The Carport Sale was cancelled for October – It will be rescheduled for February (2025!)

Need the Clubhouse?

If you'd like to reserve the clubhouse for a private event, or to host a park event, please contact Steve Jones at 972-998-6305 to obtain the necessary form.

The first eureka moment

Archimedes, the Greek mathematician (born in Syracuse in 287 B.C.) was a genius in the application of geometry to mechanical devices. Indeed, according to Thereby Hangs a Tale, by Charles E. Funk, he was the Thomas Edison of his day.

In fact, Funk says, that more than 2,000 years after his death we are still making great use out of his discoveries and inventions, and have merely been able to improve upon them.

Once, Archimedes had before him the task of determining the amount of silver a dishonest goldsmith had used in the making of a crown, which had been ordered in pure gold, for the king.

Archimedes worried over the problem to no avail until one day when he stepped into his bath. The bath had been filled to the brim and when he stepped into it, it overflowed. Archimedes noticed that the bath was full and that a certain amount of water had overflowed. This gave him his first inkling of the law of hydrostatics, which says that a body surrounded by a fluid is buoyed up by a force equal to the weight of the fluid it displaces.

Now Archimedes knew that by weighing out an equal amount of gold to the weight of the crown, and then by putting them separately into basins of water, that the difference in the amount of overflow would give him the answer to the problem of the crown, because the weight of the overflow would denote the amount of alloy.

Poor Archimedes was so excited by his discovery and the chance to test it that he jumped out of the bath, and without his clothes he ran home, astonishing passersby, while shouting “Eureka, eureka!” which means “I have found it, I have found it!”

Bar waitress cards patron, is handed own ID

A 22-year-old waitress lost her wallet in an Ohio bar, and weeks later recovered her driver’s license when a woman tried to use it to enter a bar.

Weeks after her wallet had been lost, and when she was working at the Moosehead Saloon in Westlake, Ohio, a patron handed the waitress her own license in an attempt to prove that she was 21 in order to enter the bar. The woman fled when the waitress disappeared and did not return right away, but her companion gave police her name. Maria Bergan, 23, of Lakewood, was charged with identity theft and receiving stolen property, according to an ABCNews story. The waitress’s credit card had also been stolen and used to make $1,000 in purchases.

Americans and their snacking habit

According to The Gourmet Retailer Web site, Americans love snacks, and define the ideal snack as “healthy, tastes sinful, and is convenient in all aspects” (The International Dairy, Deli & Bakery Association). Here are some other facts gleaned from the article, “The New Snack is Healthy,” by Michelle Moran.

- An estimated 90 percent of Americans indulge in a snack on any given day.
- 74 percent of Americans snack in the evening.
- 75 percent of Americans eat breakfast.
- 88 percent of Americans eat lunch.
- It is estimated that sales of snack foods will rise from the 2003 $47.1 billion to $57.3 billion in 2008.
- 33.5 percent of Americans decreased their snacking in the past two years; 30.8 percent increased their snacking.
- Twenty-five percent of adults prefer foods that are easy to prepare; 10 percent don’t have time to prepare healthy snacks or meals; 5 percent often eat store-made, precooked meals.

Want to reduce pain - try meditation

In a recent study, 12 healthy, long-term meditators, who had been practicing meditation for 30 years, showed 40 percent to 50 percent lower brain response to pain when compared to 12 healthy adults who did not meditate. The study was published in a recent article in the journal NeuroReport. Also of note, the study found that when the 12 controls in the study learned and practiced meditation for five months, their responses to pain also decreased by the same 40 percent to 50 percent.

Researchers believe that meditation can reduce pain by producing a physical state that modifies the pain level. That is why meditation has been found to reduce anxiety, improve reactions to stress and decrease acute pain.

It is estimated that 50 million people in the world suffer from chronic pain, and it appears that meditation can reduce that pain by half in many people.

David Orme-Johnson, lead author of the study, says “Prior research indicates that transcendental meditation creates a more balanced outlook on life and a greater equanimity in reacting to stress. This study suggests that this is not just an attitudinal change, but a fundamental change in how the brain functions.”

On thankfulness

In everyone’s life, at some time, our inner fire goes out. It is then burst into flame by an encounter with another human being. We should all be thankful for those people who rekindle the inner spirit.

A new pet

A man wanted to get a pet because he was lonely and was perusing the classified ads in the newspaper when he read this: Purebred Police Dog For Sale: $50. The man thought this price was a bargain and he figured the dog would be intelligent and good looking since it was a purebred. So he picked up the phone and told the seller he wanted to buy the dog. The seller offered to deliver the man's new pet to his home. The man was delighted.

When the police dog arrived however, the man was taken aback by the way it looked. It was definitely not the good-looking dog he had pictured in his mind. Instead, the dog looked like nothing more than a mangy mongrel.

"How in the world can you get away with calling that dog a purebred police dog?" the man asked.

The seller answered: "Don't let his looks deceive you. He's working undercover." As retold from The Giant Book of Jokes, edited by Dave Phillips

How snakes can see in the dark

With the popularity of the movie Snakes on a Plane, starring Samuel L. Jackson, people may be asking themselves—can snakes really keep a watch on people in the dark? Well, if they’re of the pit viper and boa varieties, the experts say yes.

According to snake expert Michael Grace, in an ABCNews article titled “How Snakes see two ways?” snakes can use their eyes to see, just like humans do. But they can also use infrared sensors to conjure images based on heat emitted by objects in the environment. Grace says snakes have the ability to switch back and forth in using these two ways of seeing and can also use them simultaneously.

Andreas B. Sichert, Paul Friedel and Leo van Hemmen, in an article in the Physical Review, say that snakes have small cavities near their snouts—and these cavities are known as pit organs. Snakes can localize heat sources by using their pit organs, which are sensitive to infrared radiation emitted by prey, such as rats and rabbits—and Samuel L. Jackson, the scientists say. However, they also say that because the pit organs are not very deep and the pit apertures are wide, that the snakes could not use them to track prey very well. But when it comes to the close confines of a plane, the snakes could use this ability to track prey in the dark.

Just something you might want to know if you ever get on a plane filled with snakes.

The origin of the names of our days

According to the Morris Dictionary of Word and Phrase Origins, the days of the week were taken from the following Anglo-Saxon terms:

- Sunnan daeg - day of the sun.
- Monan daeg - day of the moon.
- Tiwes daeg - day of Tiw, god of war.
- Wodnes daeg - day of Woden, chief diety.
- Thorsdagr - day of Thor (this actually comes from Old Norse).
- Frigedaeg - day of the goddess Frig, wife of Woden.
- Saeterdaeg - day of Saturn, Roman god of agriculture.

Fun with palindromes...

According to Bill Bryson, in The Mother Tongue: English and How It Got That Way, the palindrome is the most difficult form of wordplay in English. The word palindrome itself was first used in 1629 by Ben Johnson and is defined as a sentence that can be read the same backward as forward. This form of wordplay is at least 2,000 years old and was used by the Romans and Greeks.

Of course, Bryson says, most palindromes don't really make sensible sentences, but people tend to let that go to a point, because coming up with a palindrome is such hard work. Here is a list of some English palindromes:

- A man, a plan, a canal, Panama!
- Norma is as selfless as I am, Ron.
- To far, Edna, we wander afoot.
- Madam, I'm Adam.
- Sex at noon taxes.
- Are we not drawn onward, we few, drawn onward to a new era?
- Able was I ere I saw Elba.
- Sums are not set as a test on Erasmus.
- Satan, oscillate my metallic sonatas.

How the cocktail got its name

According to Ethlie Ann Vare and Greg Ptacek in Mothers of Invention: From the Bra to the Bomb, Forgotten Women and Their Unforgettable Ideas, the story of how the cocktail got its name has so few variations that there's little doubt that the story is true. It goes like this:

During the American Revolutionary War, Betsy Flanagan was a tavern-keeper somewhere in New England. Her inn was frequented by rebel officers and soldiers, and they often sat around complaining about a local Tory who prospered greatly while they suffered.

One night, as a special treat, Betsy concocted a drink for her regular customers. In the drink she mixed rum and fruit juice — and she decorated each glass with a feather that had been plucked from the enemy Tory's rooster.

The crowd went wild, and history, as they say, was made. The drinking and joking all mixed together until one young French officer called out in his enthusiasm: "Vive le coq's tail!"

Thanksgiving is an emotional holiday. People travel thousands of miles to be with people they only see once a year. And then discover once a year is way too often.

— Johnny Carson

A riddle about something that can make or break you

As a 24, year old, John Di Lemme, was a stutterer. He worked in his family's art gallery and dreamed of becoming a world-renowned motivational speaker. Di Lemma remained committed to his dream and over a seven-year period full of many hardships, overcame 24 years of stuttering, finally amassed a marketing team of more than 25,000 representatives in 10 countries and made his dream come true.

In his article titled "I am a habit," on GetMotivation.com, Di Lemma says habits can make you or break you in the world. Here's a definition of a habit Di Lemma says one of his good friends sent to him one day:

I am your constant companion.
I am your greatest helper or your heaviest burden.
I will push you onward or drag you down to failure.
I am completely at your command.
Half the things you do, you might just as well turn over to me,
And I will be able to do them quickly and correctly.
I am easily managed; you must merely be firm with me.
Show me exactly how you want something done, and after a few lessons I will do it automatically.

I am the servant of all great men.
And, alas, of all failures as well.
Those who are great, I have made great.
Those who are failures, I have made failures.
I am not a machine, though I work with all the precision of a machine.
Plus, the intelligence of man.
You may run me for profit, or run me for ruin; it makes no difference to me.
Take me, train me, be firm with me and I will put the world at your feet.
Be easy with me, and I will destroy you.
Who am I?

I am a HABIT!

Let us be thankful for the fools. But for them the rest of us could not succeed.
— Mark Twain

Each day offers us the gift of being a special occasion if we can simply learn that as well as giving, it is blessed to receive with grace and a grateful heart.
