Anecdotes

December is such a fascinating month, filled with a mix of festive cheer, reflections on the past year, and anticipation for the new one. Here are a few anecdotes that capture the spirit of December:

Holiday Traditions: Many families have unique traditions during the holiday season. For instance, some might bake cookies together, while others might go caroling in their neighborhood. One family I know has a tradition of making a new ornament each year to add to their Christmas tree, creating a beautiful timeline of memories.

Winter Adventures: December often brings the first real taste of winter. I remember hearing about a group of friends who decided to go on a spontaneous road trip to a snowy mountain. They ended up getting snowed in at a cozy cabin, turning what could have been a stressful situation into a memorable adventure filled with laughter, board games, and hot cocoa.

Acts of Kindness: The holiday season often inspires people to give back. There was a story about a community that came together to surprise a local family in need. They organized a secret Santa event, collecting gifts and essentials, and delivered them anonymously. The joy and gratitude from the family were heartwarming and brought the community closer together.

New Year's Eve: The anticipation of New Year's Eve is always exciting. One memorable anecdote involves a couple who decided to get married on New Year's Eve. They wanted to start the new year as a married couple, and their wedding was a grand celebration that culminated in a countdown to midnight, making it a double celebration.

Do any of these stories resonate with you, or do you have any December anecdotes of your own to share?

There are some people who want to throw their arms round you simply because it is Christmas; there are other people who want to strangle you simply because it is Christmas.

What to say about that ‘special’ gift

1. Hey! There’s a gift!
2. Well, well, well ...
3. Boy, if I had not recently shot up four sizes that would’ve fit.
4. This is perfect for wearing around the basement.
5. Gosh. I hope this never catches fire! It is fire season though. There are lots of unexplained fires.
6. If the dog buries it, I’ll be furious!
7. I love it—but I fear the jealousy it will inspire.
8. Sadly, tomorrow I enter the Federal Witness Protection Program.
9. To think—this is the year I vowed to give all my gifts to charity.
10. I really don’t deserve this. —From the Internet

Some things we must do alone

Once there was a monk who had studied Zen for many years but had been unable to discover any secrets through his efforts. The monk began to lose heart and question whether there really was anything to discover or learn after all. He was very discouraged. One day he was sent on an errand to a distant city that he reckoned would take him at least six months to complete. He feared that making the trip would be a hindrance to his studies and prevent even the possibility of experiencing a breakthrough and discovering some great truth that remained hidden from him.

He shared his anxieties with a fellow monk, who said, “There is no reason you cannot continue your meditation while you travel. Friend, I will go with you and give you help in every way I can.”

One evening while they were traveling together the monk who was seeking the answers to the mysteries of life said to his friend, “Can you not help me with finding these answers?”

“Friend, I am willing to help you in any way I can, but there are some things I cannot help you with; these things you must look after yourself.”

“What are these things I must find out?” the discouraged monk implored.

“For instance,” the sympathetic monk said, “When you are hungry or thirsty, my eating of food or drinking will not fill your stomach; you must eat and drink for yourself. No one else can satisfy your needs for these things but yourself.”

The words of the sympathetic monk opened the mind of the discouraged monk, and he was overjoyed. The sympathetic monk looked at his friend and said, “My work is done here,” and he left the other to continue on his journey alone.

While we all want, need and deserve help along the way, some things we simply have to do for ourselves. — adapted from An Introduction to Zen Buddhism, by D.T. Suzuki

Grandparent and Family Scams

Here's how they work:
You get a call: "Grandma, I need money for bail." Or maybe an email from someone claiming to be your brother or a friend who says they're in trouble. They need money for a medical bill. Or some other kind of emergency. The caller says it's urgent — and tells you to keep it a secret.
But is the caller who you think it is? Scammers are good at pretending to be someone they're not. They can be convincing: sometimes using information from social networking sites, or hacking into your loved one's email account, all to make it seem more real. And they'll pressure you to send money before you have time to think.

Here's what to do:

1. Stop. Check it out. Look up your family member's phone number yourself and call another family member to check out the story.
