FROM THE EDITOR

First, the news: The September issue of the Bay Ranch Review usually includes a directory. Due to Debbie Eakins' sad and untimely death, that will not be the case this year. The printer has said we can print a directory at any time, so the question, "Will we have a 2016 directory," is open.

The weather has been wild this summer, hasn't it? Have any of us escaped heat indices in the 100's or even 110's? Plus rain, rain, rain, and storms. It makes me sad to miss a nice day—80's, sunny, low wind. If you've been watching the Olympics, you've noticed the same weather there: cloudy and rainy one day, too windy for competition the next, and finally, a beautiful day for rowing.

Speaking of the Olympics, haven't the swimming and gymnastics been fun? Not just those two events, either. The competitors are super humans! We like to watch and comment on moves we can't believe a human being can make! It's such a feel-good event! No matter who wins what event, the outcome for me is a big smile. I think my very favorite is watching Aly Raisman's mom. I also love being able to sing, "O Canada," and well as "The Star Spangled Banner."

But here we have an example of political correctness carried perhaps a little far. I have always stood at attention for "The Star Spangled Banner" and sung it. It seems a lot of us were taught that way. After the hullabaloo about Gabby Douglas (that poor girl can do nothing right! Last time it was her hair!), I researched it and the political correctness police are correct: flag etiquette DOES say hand over heart, but it also says we should ALL be singing. So there. But let's go a couple of steps further: isn't the important thing that we show respect during the anthem? And doesn't a little tolerance go a long way?

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moore on your marriage. How sweet of you to think of having the ceremony in our own clubhouse, with our own Cliff Wickes officiating and our own Bob Lupton providing the music. The decorations looked pretty, and 20 people is the perfect size for a small wedding. Homegrown events make my heart sing.

I wish there were a way to section off a small area in the clubhouse for lovely occasions like Ruth and Robert's wedding and a few other small, nice events. My mind is working. Stay tuned. (And Cliff and Rose, don't worry! LOL)

A complete list of resident services is listed on the page before the calendar.

BOB'S CORNER

By Bob Lupton

Hey guys, do you realize you have some wonderful people in this park, When people need help there is always someone there to step up. And if a couple decides they want to get married, no problem. In just a few weeks we managed to put on a very nice ceremony officiated by our own Reverend Cliff Wickes and reception with music by yours truly. and it went off without a hitch. Around 20 friends attended.

Congratulations to the happy couple, Robert Moore and Ruth Michaels, now Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moore.

While my writers block has temporarily lifted, I want to thank all of you for your kind thought, prayers and donations during our family crises. My son in law is slowly improving and we hope he is strong enough to go through a transplant sometime next year. Gin is still in New York and I am getting ready to join her next week. We should both be back by the 31st.

I am really looking forward to our northern neighbors return in the fall. So far we have had a great year under the capable direction of Jeanne Hunter. She makes the Monday mornings fun, too. I can't wait to see what we have planned for the new year.

Stay healthy, my friends, and until next month, this is Bob's corner signing off.

JUST SAYIN'

By Jeanne Hunter Residents' Club President

Well, we've traded in the dog days of summer for the DUCK days of summer. After a week of all day rains, we're back into the normal afternoon rain pattern. On the bright side, temperatures stayed in the low 80's a few days. The weather can't keep us down though. The Ladies Having Fun are continuing their antics through the summer months and the Sunset Club is still gathering to eat, drink and be merry – although the sunsets are so late, we often just dream about them. Indoor activities like bingo, mahjong, canasta and poker are more popular now, but swimnastics and the pool any time of day keep us chilling too.

I'm concentrating on dieting. My goal for 2016 was to lose 10 pounds – only 15 pounds to go. I ate salad for dinner last night! It was mostly croutons and tomatoes...really just one big, round crouton covered with tomato sauce...and cheese. Fine, it was pizza, I ate a pizza. I don't mean to brag, but I just did a week's worth of cardio...after walking into a spider web. AND I finished the new 14-day diet I read about in four and a half hours.

Labor Day Potluck Dinner – that's all we need to read. That means fun, friends, food and whatever other 'f' words you can think of. Great way to begin September and a reminder that our northern neighbors will soon be back at the Ranch.

This story explains a lot. Grandma is 88 years old and still drives her own car. She writes:

Dear Granddaughter,

The other day I went to our local Christian bookstore and saw a honk if you love Jesus bumper sticker. I was feeling particularly sassy that day because I had just come from a thrilling choir performance followed by a thunderous prayer meeting. So I bought the sticker and put it on my bumper. Boy am I glad I did; what an uplifting experience followed.

I was stopped at a red light at a busy intersection, just lost in thought about the Lord and how good He is, and I didn't notice that the light had changed. It's a good thing someone else loves Jesus, because if he hadn't honked, I'd never have noticed.

I found that lots of people love Jesus. While I was sitting there the guy behind started honking like crazy, and then he leaned out his window and screamed, "For the love of God!" "Go, go, go! Jesus Christ, go!" What an exuberant cheerleader he was for Jesus. Everyone else started honking. I just leaned out the window and started waving and smiling at all those wonderful people. I even honked my horn a few times to share in the love. There must have been a man from Florida back there because I heard him yelling something about a sunny beach!

I saw another man waving in a funny way with only his middle finger up in the air. I asked my young grandson in the backseat what that meant. He said it was probably a Hawaiian good luck sign or something. Well, I have never met anyone from Hawaii, so I leaned out the window and gave him the good luck sign right back. My grandson burst out laughing. Even he was enjoying this religious experience.

A couple people were so caught up in the moment that they got out of their cars and started walking towards me. I bet they wanted to pray or ask what church I attended, but this is when I noticed the light had changed. So, grinning, I waved to all my brothers and sisters and drove on through the intersection. I noticed that I was the only car that made it through the intersection before the light changed and felt kind of sad that I had to leave them after all the love we had shared. So I slowed the car down, leaned out the window and gave them all the Hawaiian good luck sign as I drove away. Praise the Lord for such wonderful folks.

Will write again soon,
Love, Grandma

Ladies Having Fun

Ladies Having Fun met at Olive Garden on June 22nd. Nineteen attended the luncheon, also to celebrate Bea Cardany's 92nd birthday. Games and prizes played by Joan Seiders. Birthday cupcakes provided by Bea's daughter Nancy Peterson. ( And the cupcakes were yummy as always.) Check bulletin board for the sign up sheet for the next Ladies Having Fun event.

LET'S EAT

by Ione Jones

Editor's Note: Ione is too busy with those twin grandbabies to cook, or at least give us recipes to cook. Her daughter-in-law has opened The Butter Churn, a small eaterie in downtown Chamberlain, this summer, and Ione can't resist contributing baked items for the menu. Hopefully, we can get her back to the important things once summer ends (That's a joke.)

The cephalopods are coming

Don't look now, but cephalopods are on the rise. A team of scientists have determined that cephalopods—sea-dwellers including mollusks, squid, cuttlefish, and octopuses—are increasing their numbers below the waves.

As reported on the Sci-News website, scientists at the University of Adelaide created a database of catch rates for 35 species of cephalopods from 1953 to 2013. They found that cephalopod populations have increased across three distinct groups since the 1950s.

The sea creatures are able to adapt to environmental changes quickly due to their short lifespans, rapid growth, and life-history plasticity. Their growing numbers could have both positive and negative effects: increased pressure on the undersea species they hunt for prey, but also benefits for marine predators who in turn hunt them, as well as humans who harvest them from the sea for food.

Chinese brewed beer in ancient times

Crafts beers are thriving these days, but beer has been around for a long time, scientists say. Researchers in the United States and China have revealed that the Chinese brewed their own beer some 5,000 years ago, much earlier than previously believed.

As reported on the Voice of America website, archaeologists have uncovered brewing equipment in underground rooms in China's central plain region. Traces of ingredients found on the equipment suggests that the ancient brewmasters used a recipe of broomcorn millet, barley, a grain called Job's tears or Chinese pearl barley, and a form of tuber to brew their beverage. The presence of barley 1,000 years before it was believed to have been grown in China suggests that it might have been brought in from other regions, making beer an ingredient in early trade.

Researchers describe the possible taste of the beer as “a bit sour and a bit sweet.”

Do and don't say these to people with depression

Clinical depression is part of life for 16 million adults in the United States, according to the National Institute for Mental Health. People with depression often feel isolated and alone, so support is as much a part of treatment as therapy and medication. Here's what to say—and not to say—if someone you know suffers from depression:

Do:

- “I’m here for you.” Let people know you’re available to listen when they need to talk. Check in regularly to show that you care.
- “Let’s do something.” Help them get out of the house. Suggest activities like taking a walk, going to a movie, or getting some coffee.
- “I know this is difficult.” Recognize the other person’s struggle. Just knowing that someone understands the challenges of depression can help.

Don't:

- “You just need ____.” Minimizing the person’s pain doesn’t help. Don’t offer a quick-fix solution to a long-term problem.
- “I get depressed, too.” Yes, everyone feels down from time to time, but clinical depression can feel like a never-ending battle. Don’t compare your occasional blue days to another person’s serious condition.
- “Other people have worse problems.” Comparing your friend’s problem to other people rarely helps—and may make the person feel worse. Show compassion for the situation and help as much as

Move here to get into shape

Does where you live influence your physical health? Some cities are more conducive to a healthy lifestyle than others in terms of access to parks and recreation, “walkability,” and other factors. The American Fitness Index, produced by the American College of Sports Medicine and the Anthem Foundation, lists the ten best cities for fitness in the United States. They are:
