It is official, by the calendar and the weather forecaster, fall has arrived. Mother Nature and Jack Frost have been working their magic to lower the temps and change the trees. When the trees first start turning, just the tops of them are in color. In a few days the entire tree bursts into color and the results are spectacular. Of course, the leaves then fall and the work begins - raking and burning. There is nothing better than the smell of burning leaves in autumn. Fall is definitely a unique season with the apple orchards selling fresh cider and donuts, then there is Halloween which has become such a huge celebration. Many folks putting up as many outside decorations for Trick or Treat as they do for Christmas.

More and more residents are making the journey down to Boca Ciega every day. Quite a few people have arrived and the park is coming to life again. However, Hurricane Matthew is also on his way to Florida. The entire East Coast is being evacuated with quite a procession of cars and trucks heading North. We pray that Matthew will not cause much damage or loss of life. The latest news shows Saint Augustine getting the worst of the storm. Once again Boca Ciega has survived another hurricane. We pray that everyone heading South will travel safe and arrive with no problems.

News and Notes

It is with a great sense of sadness that I relate the passing of Ida Maurice. Ida passed away on September 19th and we sincerely offer up our sympathy to Noel and her entire family. Ida was a great asset to our park and a blessing to everyone who knew her. She will be greatly missed.

Mike Beckwith was in the hospital for a brief stay. He is home and doing well. So glad to hear you are better Mike.

Marianne Schamberger was also hospitalized for pneumonia. She is home now and fully recovered. Great to hear that you are well once again Marianne.

Shirley Mann is in Largo Medical and will be having surgery. We pray for a quick recovery for Shirley.

As always stay healthy and be safe.

Did you know that November is also...

National Epilepsy Awareness Month. Learn about the different types of seizures and how to prevent them—or help someone suffering from them. A seizure is a short change in normal brain activity that can cause changes in awareness, behavior, or body movement. Because anyone can have a seizure, recognizing symptoms and knowing how to help is vital.

Native American Heritage Month. Established at the turn of the 20th century as an effort to gain a day of recognition for the significant contributions the first Americans. In 1990 President George H. W. Bush approved a joint resolution designating that November “National American Indian Heritage Month.” Similar proclamations have been issued each year since 1994.

Military Family Appreciation Month. Throughout November, military families serving around the world are honored and recognized for their commitment and the many contributions they make every day in support of the military and our nation.

National Animal Shelter and Rescue Appreciation Week, Nov. 3-9. Approximately 3,500 animal shelters across the United States serve the estimated 6 million to 8 million homeless animals who need refuge each year. Get acquainted with your local shelters and rescuers, and learn how you can assist their lifesaving work.

National Nurse Practitioner Week, Nov. 13-19. Held annually to celebrate these exceptional health care providers and to remind lawmakers of the importance of removing outdated barriers to practice so that NPs will be able to practice to the full extent of their experience and education.

American Education Week, Nov. 14-18. The 2016 theme, “Great Public Schools: A Basic Right and Our Responsibility,” will present all Americans with an opportunity to celebrate public education and honor individuals who are making a difference in ensuring that every child receives a high-quality education.

A troubling trend: Americans overdoing antibiotics

Antibiotics are a boon to doctors and their patients, but they pose dangers if they're overused. That makes this news especially concerning: A Texas study reported on the UPI website found that about one in 20 adults have stockpiled supplies of antibiotics in their homes and use them without a physician's advice.

The study of 400 adults in the Houston area found that 14 percent of adults have a stash of antibiotic medications in their home, and 5 percent have used them without a doctor's guidance in the past year. The medications come from a variety of sources: 40 percent came from a store or pharmacy, 24 percent were purchased outside the United States, 20 percent came from family or friends, and 12 percent were left over from past prescriptions.

In 4 percent of cases, the drugs obtained without a prescription were intended for use on animals, not humans.

Millennials worry about debt

Millennials aren't the carefree kids you might think they are. A FICO survey found that they're concerned about debt—with good reason. According to FICO's online survey of approximately 1,000 Americans over 17, 32 percent of millennials owe $20,000 or more in student loans, and 45 percent owe at least $7,000 on car loans.

In all, 37 percent of millennials ages 25-34 say they're concerned about their level of debt, and 33 percent would like assistance in managing their debt. For example, 65 percent would like to receive an email alert when their student loan payments are overdue by less than 90 days, and 35 percent want to be notified by app when their mortgage payments are less than 90 days late (but they'd prefer a phone call if their payments are more than 90 days overdue).

These tiny robots may save your life

The newest medical robots look and move like bacteria, and they can deliver medications to specific locations within the human body and perform intricate surgeries like clearing clogged arteries.

According to the Science Daily website, a team of scientists is working to develop a selection of biological robots that are soft, flexible, and move through bodies under the control of an electromagnetic field. Once they reach their destination, they're heated to change shape, mimicking—for example—the bacterium that causes African trypanosomiasis, or sleeping sickness. Although still in development, these microrobots could revolutionize the way patients are treated in the not-so-distant future.

Get more creativity with a clear focus

Creativity and innovation aren't always accidental. A consistent focus will produce better results, so you don't have to wait for lightning to strike. Try these techniques to spur your imagination as you work:

- Start your day with a purpose. Instead of rushing out the door without a plan, spend a few minutes in the morning thinking about what you want to accomplish that day. Do this before checking your cell phone or email. You'll be less likely to get distracted by other demands.
- Shake up your routine. Get out of your comfort zone so you aren't always surrounded by what's familiar. Get up earlier than normal, take a new route to work, do your tasks in a different order, try something new and exciting—anything to shake your mind free of its preconceptions and look at your work in a different light.
- Be mindful. Don't go on autopilot. Pay attention to everything around you—the people you work with, the tasks you work on, the environment you work in, and so forth. The more aware you are of what's going on, the more likely you'll see a new connection or find an idea where you least expect it.

Don't be afraid to ask questions

Alyssa Mastromonaco was deputy chief of staff in the Obama White House until 2014. She told a radio station an important lesson she learned early on about the importance of asking questions:

During an Oval Office meeting on the economic crisis, she was close to panic, worried that the president would ask her a question about issues she knew nothing about, such as quantitative easing. She began quickly writing down key words and phrases to look up later.

Economic adviser Larry Summers noticed and tapped her on the shoulder. "Come to my office later," he said.

Worried that Summers was mad at her, Mastromonaco went to his office after the meeting. Summers asked about her list.

When she told him what she'd written down and why, Summers said, "I'll tell you anything you need to know." He proceeded to give her a quick lesson on economics. She left the office feeling relieved—and better informed than before. Nowadays she knows that admitting you don't know something is better informed than pretending you do—and she never thinks asking for information is stupid.

A lesson in determination

British runner Derek Redmond was one of the favorites for a gold medal in the 400-meter spring at the 1992 Olympics in Barcelona. But halfway through the race, Redmond—in the lead—collapsed on the track with a hamstring injury.

Medical staff rushed to help him, but Redmond waved them away. He somehow got to his feet and started staggering down the track. With thousands watching, and officials unsure of what to do, Redmond's father ran out to him.

“You don't have to do this, son,” he said.

“Yes, I do,” Redmond replied.

His father helped Redmond down the track, tears streaming down both their faces, waving away anyone who tried to stop them.

The crowd roared when Redmond finally crossed the finish line. The feat is considered by many to be the defining moment of the Barcelona Olympics.

Keep learning at any age

As you and your family members age, you may find you have more difficulty remembering things. Try to help you stay on top of the knowledge game and keep you learning as you age:

- Visualize. Mentally rehearse an event, conversation or activity before it actually happens. This visualization helps eliminate the stress you may feel over the unknown. Plus, when you're more relaxed, you're better able to learn.
- Take a break and exercise. If you're trying to remember information you're reading, take frequent breaks. Don't just sit around, though. Engage in some kind of activity to keep your mind alert and your blood flowing.
- Focus on concentrating. Distractions are the bane of any learning attempt. If you're attending a class or lecture, sit near the instructor and maintain eye contact with him or her. Try not to fidget; simply relax into the session and let your focused attention do the job.
- Say it out loud. Read aloud the material you're trying to learn and repeat out loud the facts you want to retain. This way, both your mind and your ears are taking in information.
- Tame frustration. If you grow frustrated over material you're trying to learn, remind yourself that getting emotional will only hamper your ability to retain information. If you have to, step back and take a long break.

Your fish may know what you look like

Dogs and primates can recognize human faces, but can fish? Apparently so. Scientists at the University of Oxford and Australia's University of Queensland have discovered that the archerfish can be trained to differentiate between faces with a high degree of accuracy, even though they don't have the type of brain other animals use for visual recognition.

As reported on the Reuters website, scientists chose the archerfish for their experiment because of its ability to shoot a jet of water from its mouth, usually to hunt down insects above the water's surface. They introduced the images of two human faces and trained the fish to shoot water at a specific one. In later tests, the fish were able to recognize a learned human face from 44 new ones and hit their original target 81 percent of the time—even when the color and shape of the head were changed.

Because fish have no neocortex in their brains, and presumably no evolutionary need to recognize and distinguish between humans, the discovery is unexpected—and interesting to scientists studying brains of all kinds.

How did dinosaurs travel across the oceans?

The remains of similar species of stegosaurus and other dinosaurs have been found on both sides of the Atlantic Ocean, prompting scientists to speculate about how some dinosaurs, along with mammals and other land animals, made their way across oceans after the breakup of the supercontinent Pangaea hundreds of millions of years ago.

The latest theory suggests that North America and Europe were joined together by two strips of land that existed during the late Jurassic period—some 151 million to 154 million years ago—and the early Cretaceous, approximately 129 million to 131 million years ago. One land bridge connected Canada to the Iberian peninsula, and the other provided a route between North America and Scandinavia.

Dinosaurs like the stegosaurus and allosaurus could have moved along the land bridge along with turtles and early mammals. According to the Science News website, tectonic activity could have caused ocean shelves in relatively shallow water to rise above sea level. The bridges would have been narrow strips some 80-160 kilometers across—before they sank back into the sea.

Ease the pain of nighttime leg cramps

Sudden, uncontrollable cramping of the calf muscle at night is a painful condition that afflicts about 70 percent of adults over the age of 50. These nocturnal leg cramps are often sharp enough to interrupt a deep sleep and can last anywhere from a few seconds to 10 minutes.

What causes the condition? Researchers don't have a definitive answer, but dehydration, prolonged sitting, and overexertion of the muscles all appear to contribute to the problem. Doctors can prescribe medication to relieve acute cramping that regularly interferes with sleep, but if you suffer from just occasional symptoms, try the following:

- Drink water. Try a few ounces of prevention: Drink six to eight glasses of water during the day. Water is the best choice for keeping the body well hydrated.
- Stay loose. Don't wrap blankets tightly around your body, especially your feet. Don't point your toes downward while you sleep—this can also affect circulation.
- Stretch. Throughout the day, periodically stretch your calf muscles.
- React the right way. If you wake up with a cramp in the middle of the night, flex your foot so that your toes point upward. You can also stand up, placing all your weight on the affected leg, and bend at the knee to stretch out the muscle. Applying a heating pad or ice pack can also relieve the pain.

Acupuncture, supplements, and other treatments add up to big money

Americans spend a lot of money on traditional health care, but we also spend a large amount on so-called “complementary” approaches to curing what ails us. According to an analysis by the National Center for Complementary and Integrative Health (NCCIH) and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, non-traditional treatments like herbal supplements, meditation, chiropractic, and yoga add up to $30.2 billion a year in the United States. Here's how it breaks down:

- Chiropractic, acupuncture, and massage therapy account for $14.7 billion, an average out-of-pocket expense of $433.
- Natural dietary supplements add up to $12.8 billion, an average of $368 per user.
- Other self-care products like books, CDs, and other resources total $2.7 billion, an average of $257.

Pay attention to these factors to prevent stroke

Stroke is a leading cause of disability and death around the world. The good news is that it's highly preventable. Scientists and physicians believe that 90 percent of all strokes are caused by 10 risk factors, according to the Philadelphia Inquirer website. These factors can be controlled, cutting one's chances of stroke by these percentages:

- |                       |            |
|-----------------------|------------|
| • High blood pressure | 48 percent |
| • Physical inactivity | 36 percent |
| • Lipids (blood fats) | 27 percent |
| • Poor diet           | 23 percent |
| • Obesity             | 19 percent |
| • Smoking             | 12 percent |
| • Diabetes            | 4 percent  |
| • Alcohol use         | 6 percent  |
| • Stress              | 6 percent  |

Keep your fireplace safe this winter

The winter months are perfect for snuggling up in front of a nice cozy fire. Just make sure your fireplace doesn't pose a hazard to your home with these tips from the Hearth, Patio & Barbecue Association:

- Clear the area around the fireplace and chimney. Debris too close to your fireplace can ignite.
- Always use a fireplace screen.
- Don't overload your fireplace with logs.
- Don't try to burn your Christmas tree or other refuse in your fireplace.
- Always keep a fire extinguisher nearby.
- Equip your home with smoke detectors and check your batteries on a regular basis.
- Place your logs on a grate at the rear of your fireplace.
- Never leave the fire unattended. Make sure the fire is fully extinguished before you go to bed.
- Keep fireplace wood stacked, covered and out of doors—away from the house and off the ground.
- Have your fireplace and flue inspected and cleaned annually by a certified chimney sweep.

Kepler telescope keeps finding new worlds

The planets just keep coming: The Kepler space telescope has discovered 104 new exoplanets around distant stars, adding to the 2,300 it has already spotted from 2009-2013. Most of these new worlds are less than three times the diameter of Earth, although close to a dozen are about the same size or smaller. A handful of them receive as much sunlight and solar energy as Earth, making them possibly suitable for life to develop.

The discoveries come in the wake of a series of malfunctions to Kepler and a new mission that has the telescope watching a section of the galaxy aligned with Earth's orbit, observing one location for about 80 days before moving on to new frontiers.

Exercise! It's good for your memory

A good memory is useful for creativity; remembering something you've just learned helps you make connections and see possibilities. A new study reported on the Science Daily website suggests that one way to boost memory and retention is exercise.

In the study, conducted by the Donders Institute at the Radboud University Medical Center in the Netherlands, 72 subjects learned a series of picture/location associations. They were then randomly separated into three groups—one worked out on exercise bikes immediately after the session, another exercised four hours later, and the third group didn't exercise at all. Two days later, all the participants were tested on what they'd learned while undergoing an MRI.

The subjects who had exercised four hours after the session retained their knowledge better than those in the two other groups, the researchers found. The brain images indicated that delayed exercise appeared to be associated with activity in the hippocampus—where learning and memory take place—whenever a participant answers a question correctly.

The experiment suggests that exercise isn't just good for your health—it strengthens your memory as well.

A classic Thanksgiving tale

On the night before Thanksgiving, a neighborhood butcher was just locking up his shop when a man pounded on the front door. “Please let me in,” the man pleaded. “I forgot to buy a turkey, and my wife will kill me if I don’t come home with one.”

Feeling sorry for the man, the butcher let him inside. “Let me see what I have left.” He went into the walk-in refrigerator and found only one scrawny turkey left. He brought it out to show the man.

“That’s too skinny. What else have you got?” the man asked.

Irritated, the butcher took the bird back into the fridge, waited a few minutes, and then brought the same turkey back out.

“Oh, no.” The man shook his head. “That one doesn’t look any better. You better give me both of them.”

No slackers

The new CEO wanted to prove that he wouldn’t tolerate any slackers in his organization. On a tour of the plant on his first day, he noticed a man leaning against the wall while everyone else worked at a hectic pace.

“How much money do you make a week?” the CEO demanded.

Surprised, the man answered, “About $500. How come?”

The CEO reached for his wallet and counted out $2,000. “Here’s four weeks’ severance pay. Now get out and don’t come back.”

Startled, the man quickly left. The CEO turned and asked the plant foreman, “What did that guy do around here?”

The foreman answered, “He delivered the pizza.”
