Annual Pork Party

This year's event was held on Saturday January 26th. Seventy-three people devoured a marvelous meal from Sonny's. The meal included pulled pork, sliced pork, hot or sweet wings, brats, cole slaw, potato salad, pasta salad and pickles with a cake for dessert. Following dinner it was time for Lady and the Outlaw to perform. Lots of dancers kicking up their heels, and wanna be singers chiming in to Proud Mary. If you missed this event, you missed a good time. Lots of new people in attendance, and thanks to the regular party goers for making this the first of the season events a success. And a tip of the hat to management for providing the funds for this event.

---

Potluck

Potluck in March will be held on the 14th & the 28th. Come enjoy a dinner entree prepared by a neighbor. If you would like to host a potluck there is a sign up sheet in the front of the red book. Next to it is the sign up sheet for Coffee Hour.

The money for the entree is provided by management. If you are new to potluck you need to know the following. You must bring our own table setting, including cutlery. You need to bring a side dish to share with the group. You need to sign up by the Wednesday before the potluck so enough entree is made. (Please remember to come if you sign up so we don't have wasted food.) When you sign up there are columns to check to indicate what type of side you will bring, i.e. vegetable, salad, dessert, etc. One last thing, your items must be brought ready to serve. Please don't plan on using the stove or the microwave.

Headed North?

Many of our friends will be heading for the north within the next month. This is a reminder that when you go there should be NO items left in your carports. No items should be left in your gardens. In bad weather (not just hurricanes) these objects become flying missiles and can cause damage to your home and to surrounding homes. You should also have someone locally to check on your place monthly to be sure weeds and bushes are under control and that your home has suffered no damage. Be sure to shut off your water. Many folks leave foil pans of charcoal in their homes to absorb the humidity and to deter pests. Every one who stays here year round wishes you safe travels and a speedy return.

Social Club News

Submitted by Pat Jones

The winter season is well under way. The yard sale in January did well. Thanks to all those who volunteered their time to help set up, price, work the sale, clean up the hall afterwards and to those who transported the leftovers to Hospice thrift store.

Coffee attendance is increasing and it is the perfect time to spend with friends and find out what's happening with all the different clubs. Coffee in February will be on the 9th followed by the social club meeting around 9:30 a.m. The second coffee will be on the 23rd.

The NFL Championship party was held on February 3.

Next up was the Valentine's Day Dance. Tickets sold for five dollars ($5.) for members and $8.00 for non-members. Tracy Bogetti was the performer.

On Saturday the 15th, we held a Pancake Breakfast. Serving began around 9 a.m. and ended around 9:40. The cost of the breakfast was $3.00.

These events can be enjoyed by all who live in the park. Your guests are also welcome. So come enjoy good food and good fellowship, and perhaps make some new friends.

March will include a Bingo on Wednesday March 6th. St. Patricks Day party on the 1th. The end of season party will be held on the 23rd. Watch the memo boards for times and additional information.

February general meeting will be on February 1. Upcoming February events include the Valentine's Dance on February 14th and a Pancake Breakfast on February 16th. Watch the memo boards for more information.

Friendship Club

Submitted by Janet Boswell

To celebrate Valentine's Day, the Friendship Club held an ice cream social on February 12. Ice cream with various toppings was enjoyed by all who attended. Our next scheduled meeting will be March 12 and plans for a luncheon, and possibly entertainment, is in the works. Please sign up in the red book at the club house. We look forward to seeing you.

Line Dancing

Americans prefer to stay at home

Planning a vacation overseas this year? You're not exactly alone, but you're not in the majority. As reported on the NerdWallet website, a survey by Priority Pass found that only 14 percent of Americans plan to leave the United States for a vacation this year. Forty-five percent said they'd prefer to stay in the U.S.

The survey included 10,000 people in nine countries. Overall, 32 percent of respondents said they expect to go abroad for their holidays. Among other travel-related findings from the survey:

- Americans are least likely to spend a cash gift on travel. If given $300, U.S. residents are least likely to use it to help pay for a trip. People in the United Kingdom and Mexico are most likely.
- Americans spend more on travel. Although they travel less, Americans have the highest per-person budget for overseas travel.
- Americans don't share. Finally, the survey found that Americans are least likely to share their travel memories on social media, or recommend hotels, airlines, and transportation services than residents of other countries.

We're still looking at our phones on the road

We all know the dangers of texting while driving—or do we? A survey of drivers in Philadelphia, as reported on the Fox 8 website, found that 75 percent admit to using mobile devices behind the wheel.

They're not all kids, either. Although 91 percent of millennials reported using a smartphone or other device while driving, so did 79 percent of Gen Xers and 64 percent of Baby Boomers. What are they doing? Reading text messages or emails (48 percent), updating or checking social media (23 percent), and recording videos (18 percent). Only 9 percent of drivers in the survey said they use a "Do not disturb" app on their phones while driving.

These drawing games can spur your brain

Drawing can spur your creativity. You don't have to be a Picasso. Just try some of these games with your friends (from the My Modern Met website):

- The Exquisite Corpse. In this game, developed by the 20th-century Surrealist artists, one person begins a drawing at the top of a sheet of paper, then folds it over or covers it up so only a bit of the bottom is showing. The next person continues the drawing, folds it down, and so on. Unfolding it to reveal the completed drawing should produce surprises, laughs, and even some ideas.
- Paper Telephone. One person writes a short, descriptive phrase on a piece of paper, then passes it to the next. He or she then draws a picture based on the phrase. The next person looks only at the picture and then writes a phrase or sentence describing it. The following person then draws a picture of that phrase, and so on. By the end, the final picture and the original phrase may have nothing to do with each other.
- Blind Contour. In this exercise you (and a partner) draw something around you, but without looking at the paper—just the subject of your drawing. Keep your pen or pencil on the paper at all times. You might be surprised at what you see.
- Scribbles. One person scribbles on a piece of paper, eyes closed. The next person has to turn that doodle into a drawing. This forces your mind to make sense of nonsense.

A simple exercise for imagination

Your subconscious mind can help you exercise your imagination. Try this technique (used by Thomas Edison):

Ten minutes before you go to sleep, organize your thoughts. Think about a problem you're trying to solve, or ask your brain a question. Keep thinking about this as you drift off to dreamland. Then, during the first 10 minutes after waking up, write down whatever pops into your head. You'll often find that your brain has answered your question during your sleep. In the morning your mind is looser, and you're more likely to remember dreams and connect them to your daytime reality.

INVENTION, STRICTLY SPEAKING, IS LITTLE MORE THAN A NEW COMBINATION OF THOSE IMAGES WHICH HAVE BEEN PREVIOUSLY GATHERED AND DEPOSITED IN THE MEMORY; NOTHING CAN COME FROM NOTHING.

Watch these risk factors while you're driving

Staying safe on the road means being aware of the risks. According to the Knowledge at Work website, these factors can increase the chance of an accident while driving:

- Driving while fatigued or sleep-deprived—six hours of sleep or less triples your risk.
- Driving long distances without taking sufficient breaks for rest.
- Driving through the night, during a midafternoon energy dip, or when you would normally be asleep.
- Driving under the influence of sedating medications like antidepressants, cold tablets, antihistamines, and the like.
- Working more than 60 hours a week. This can raise your risk by 40 percent.
- Drinking alcohol, even in small amounts.
- Driving alone.
- Driving along a long, dark, or boring road.

Mystery of the missing Martian methane

It's a mystery—what happened to the methane on Mars? Science Magazine reports that in 2004, the Martian Express orbiter detected signs of methane in Mars' atmosphere. In 2014, the Curiosity rover observed a methane spike in Gale crater that lasted several months, and a few years later Curiosity detected a small seasonal cycle of methane eruptions in the Martian northern hemisphere.

Some scientists doubted the findings. The European Space Agency sent the Trace Gas Orbiter up, arriving in the red planet's orbit in 2016. Although some issues with the readings remain to be cleared up, researchers report that they haven't found any methane at all.

What happened? No one knows, but the Trace Gas Orbiter will keep reporting data until 2022, so maybe scientists will be able to solve the mystery after all.

Exercise puts the brakes on aging, study suggests

It's no secret that exercise keeps you healthy, but new evidence suggests that it can actually keep your body young as the years roll on. NPR reports that a recent study indicates that people in their 70s who have been exercising regularly for decades appear to have halted the aging process.

A study at the Human Performance Laboratory at Ball State University, looked at individuals in three groups. Two groups consisted of people with an average age of 75, some of whom had exercised strenuously throughout their lives and some who'd performed only mild exercise such as golfing or hiking. The third group was made up of people with an average age of 25, all of whom worked out as strenuously as their older counterparts.

Comparisons of oxygen intake, which tends to decline as people age, showed a strong similarity between the young and older high-energy exercisers. Observations of muscle health were similarly consistent.

You might not be able to go back in time and persuade your younger self to start working out, but aerobic exercise at any age can do wonders for your overall health as you age.

Sleep: Get just the right amount

Getting enough sleep is essential to good health. Now it turns out that getting too much sleep may be detrimental to your health.

An article on the Medical News Today website notes that six to eight hours of sleep is considered necessary for most adults. Sleep deprivation can contribute to such chronic health problems as diabetes, cardiovascular disease, depression, and other unhealthy conditions.

 However, data from more than 116,000 people participating in the Prospective Urban Rural Epidemiology (PURE) study found that people who sleep more than eight hours a night are at advanced risk of cardiovascular disease and premature death. The risk is 5 percent higher for those who slept eight to nine hours per night, the study found. For those who slept nine to 10 hours, the risk of heart and blood vessel problems rose to 17 percent, and those who reported sleeping more than 10 hours were 41 percent more likely to develop cardiovascular problems and die early.

One more reason to get a good night's sleep—but not too much sleep.

Monthly

Credit Education Month. Know your credit score, review your budget, and make a plan to pay off debt. This month, focus on your personal and professional finances while you research the tools and services that can help you manage your credit.

Employee Spirit Month. The holidays are over, but cold and flu season is still here, tax time is around the corner, and the weather leaves much to be desired. Boost workplace morale and engagement by giving employees a reason to celebrate this month. Cater lunch or provide a tasty snack to show workers how much they mean to you. Spread good news and encourage others to do the same. Whatever you decide, do something. Your staff deserves it.

International Mirth Month. Keynote speaker, author, and self-proclaimed “Jollytologist” Allen Klein developed this month’s theme as a way of encouraging others to find humor in the mundane and stressful occurrences of life. Beat back the end-of-winter doldrums by infusing a healthy dose of mirth to your home and workplace.

Spiritual Wellness Month. Shift the focus to yourself to keep your spirit nurtured, and encourage others to do the same. It can be as simple as pushing back from your desk each day at 3 p.m. to observe a minute of quiet reflection and deep breathing, or creating a meditation station in an unused cubicle where you can retreat to enjoy a few minutes of quiet and space.

Weekly

National Write A Letter of Appreciation Week, March 1–7. When was the last time you wrote a letter to let someone know just how much they mean to you? Now is the time to do just that. You don’t have to limit yourself to writing only one.

Girl Scouts Week, March 10–16. Show your support for girls and young women in your community as they take on projects and tasks to develop their leadership and stewardship skills.

Welllderly Week, March 18–24. They say age is nothing but a number, so don’t let those digits be an excuse for slowing down. Staying active and engaged is the key to healthy life regardless of your age. Encourage seniors in your family and community to keep busy and move about. Help them find activities and resources to promote a greater sense of well-being.

International Week of Solidarity with People Struggling Against Racism and Discrimination, March 21–27. Attend programs and lectures in your area to elevate your awareness of problems and inequities created by prejudice.

Learn to bounce back from setbacks

Every career comes with a few—or more—setbacks. You can't avoid them, so you have to learn how to deal with them and bounce back. From the CNBC's Make It website comes this advice for recovering from even the toughest failures:

- Learn and adjust. When a disaster strikes, even a small one, take the time to figure out what happened. Then you can adjust your strategy so it doesn't happen again.
- Help other people. If you're generous with your time and expertise, people will willingly help you out when you fail. Make a point of assisting your co-workers and friends so they'll feel inclined to return the favor when you need them.
- Focus on what you can control. Obviously, some things are beyond your reach. Don't worry about them, and keep your mind on what's in your control. This will help you move forward.
- Keep the faith. Remember that you've succeeded before and will again. Think of the setbacks you've survived, and remind yourself that you didn't give up then. Next, commit yourself to action.
- Find allies. Surround yourself with people who not only help you, but encourage you. A circle of positive people who believe in you can give you the confidence to keep going in spite of failure.
- Accept responsibility. Don't blame others for your failure. Maybe they broke promises, but in the end, the responsibility for fixing things is up to you. Own up to your mistakes honestly, and share what you're doing to rectify them today and avoid them in the future.

Small asteroid holds big, wet surprises

A tiny asteroid 1.2 billion miles away is covered with boulders and is moister than previously was thought, NASA reports. An article on the U.S. News & WorldReport website relates that the Osiris-Rex space probe has taken orbit around Bennu, an asteroid only about three city blocks wide and weighing about 80 million tons.

Readings and photographs from Osiris-Rex show that Bennu is surprisingly studded with hundreds of small boulders across its surface. Scientists expected only a handful. Although there's no liquid water, plenty of moisture is evident in wet clay. Researchers speculate that Bennu broke off from a larger asteroid that could have contained water.

Osiris-Rex will orbit Bennu for a year, then dive close to its surface in 2010. A robotic arm will shoot puffs of nitrogen into Bennu's soil and collect grains of dirt from the asteroid; Osiris-Rex will return them to Earth in 2023.

Scientists grow artificial venom glands from snake stem cells

Milking venomous snakes probably isn't on anyone's list of most desirable jobs. Venom is needed to create antidotes for deadly snake bites, though. Now scientists are working on a process for creating that venom in the laboratory.

The Science News website reports that researchers in the Netherlands have successfully grown copies of the glands that produce venom in snakes. The scientists dissected the eggs of Cape coral snakes and used stem cells to create different types of tissues, called organoids, that could create the venom. The team has since grown venom glands from seven or so species of snakes, which have survived in the laboratory for up to two years.

Some 2.7 million people around the world are bitten by venomous snakes each year. Many die, and many others lose limbs or suffer other disabilities. The artificial process to create antivenom could save lives and prevent lots of suffering.

Ancient plant virus dug up in Arizona

Scientists have discovered a 1,000-year-old plant virus in corncobs from an Ancestral Puebloan ruin in Arizona, the Sci-News website reports. It's the oldest plant virus discovered so far.

The Ancestral Puebloans who lived at the Antelope House subsisted on planted crops of maize, squash, and beans, with maize being a major food source. Researchers excavated Antelope House in the 1970s and uncovered more than two tons of food refuse.

Recently analysis using carbon-14 found the corncobs and other refuse to be 1,000 years old. The analysis also isolated three almost complete genomes of a previously unknown RNA virus.

Dubbed ZMCV1, it's a chrysovirus, part of a family of viruses that infect plants and fungi, transmitting from generation to generation through seeds—but which cause no disease in humans and are rarely detected.

Science means constantly walking a tightrope between blind faith and curiosity; between expertise and creativity; between bias and openness; between experience and epiphany; between ambition and passion; and between arrogance and conviction—in short, between an old today and a new tomorrow.

AFFORDABLE VAPOR BARRIER

Have You Looked UNDER PROTECT
Your Home Lately? YOUR HOME

Fix Small Problems Today
Before They Cause Serious Damage!

We will inspect and photograph any issues, showing you pictures of the underside of your home. Damaged & worn vapor barriers can create high energy costs and allow mold & mildew to grow and weaken your sub floor creating "Soft Spots". Keep Mold, Moisture & Animals out of your Home.

Repairs will be made quickly and include a
20 Year Transferable Warranty!
