Condolences

Pat has informed me of the death of former Honeymoon resident, James Travis. James and Vera lived in the Circle, #208. Condolences to the Travis family.

Photo Directory

Darlene Orvis says the photographer of our Photo directory has returned to her the photos that were submitted to them for the directory. She has them and they can be picked up by calling her at 813-846-5154. Thanks to all who provided photos.

My friend Linda shares this story – (It's a blonde joke)

A blonde gets home from work early and hears strange noises coming from the bedroom. She rushes upstairs to find her husband naked lying on the bed, sweating and panting. “What's up?” she asks.

“I think I'm having a heart attack!” cries the husband. The blonde rushes downstairs to grab the phone, but while she is dialing, her 4-year old son comes up and says, “Mummy Mummy, Aunt Shirley is hiding in the wardrobe and she doesn't have any clothes on!”

The blonde slams the phone down and storms back upstairs into the bedroom right past her husband, rips open the wardrobe door and sure enough, there is her sister, totally naked and cowering on the floor.

“You rotten witch!” screams the blonde. “My husband's having a heart attack and you're running around naked playing hide and seek with the kids!”

From A Walk Thru Time Honeymoon Park 30th Anniversary 1968 – 1998

In 1983, a newspaper article described a Gala Christmas Luncheon and special program by Doris Griffiths. Her “kindergarten class” included class president Susie Walters, who gave the welcome; Eileen Hampson, the little sweetie ballerina donned in a beautiful tutu who strutted her stuff; and J. R. Griffith, the problem child who loved the girls and never took off his big hat. Honeymoon's band, The Honey Bees performed with “Little Tickler of the Ivories” Dottie Lampman at the piano, “Fritz Chrysler” Simmons on the violin, Bobby “Drummer Boy” Ritenour and Howie “Cosell” Anderson on his home made bass viola. Jake “Paderewski-Liberace” Moyer delighted the audience with a piano solo, but cried because he didn't have a candelabra.

The talents of Honeymooners are not limited to music and acting, but also are evident during the annual holiday decorating contest. Wreaths are hung, poinsettias are planted, colored lights are strung and trees are decorated. This annual home decorating contest is sponsored by Pat and Sheila Rago, who light up their lot with an elaborate collection of Christmas decorations handmade by Pat.

Christmas and Thanksgiving dinners in the Recreation Center date back to 1970. They continue to titillate the tastebuds of those who are with their Honeymoon family for the holidays. Volunteers also deliver meals to the homebound in the park. While residents used to do the cooking, turkeys and all the trimmings are now purchased at Publix.

Next year, 2018, will be the 50th anniversary of Honeymoon Park. I think that will be an excuse for another great party! Start looking through the “archives” to find stories and photos you can share of earlier times at Honeymoon.

Ace Reporter Tom Lenard sent this story from July -

It was the 22nd of July 2017 when it happened. The day started off bright and sunny without a care in the world when the landscape crew showed up. Little did we know that this was the day that the landscape would be completed. As the day continued on so did the bushes and shrubs. The clouds threatened about mid-morning and early afternoon with lightning and thunder off in the distance, but the crew did not stop.

Anyway the job did get done with sprinkles in between and the hope that the rains would finally come to get the beautiful creation off to a good start.

The photos are "a work in progress", and the end result is an attractive facade that makes a very impressive introduction to Honeymoon Park!

The Irish never hesitate to come to the aid of their fellow man ...air passengers, in this case!

Shortly after take-off on an outbound, evening Aer Lingus flight from Dublin to Boston, the lead flight attendant nervously made the following painful announcement in her lovely Irish brogue: "Ladies and gentlemen, I'm so very sorry, but it appears that there has been a terrible mix-up by our catering service. I don't know how this has happened, but we have 103 passengers on board, and unfortunately, we received only 40 dinner meals. I truly apologize for this mistake and inconvenience."

When the muttering of the passengers had died down, she continued, "Anyone who is kind enough to give up their meal so that someone else can eat, will receive free and unlimited drinks for the duration of our 10 hour flight."

Her next announcement came about 2 hours later: "If anyone is hungry, we still have 40 dinners available."

You know you're a Floridian if.....

- You never use an umbrella because the rain will be over in 5 minutes.

- Your winter coat is made of denim.
- You can tell the difference between fire ant bites and mosquito bites.
- You're younger than 30 but some of your friends are over 65.
- Anything under 70 degrees is chully

- You know that anything under a Category 3 just isn't worth waking up for.
- You dread love bug season.
- You are on a first-name basis with the Hurricane list. They aren't Hurricane Charley or Hurricane Frances. You know them as Andrew, Charley, Frances, Ivan, Jeanne, Wilma, Irene, Cheryl etc. etc. etc.
- You know what a snowbird is and when they'll leave.
- You think a six-foot alligator is actually pretty average.
- 'Down South' means Key West.
- Flip-flops are everyday wear. Shoes are for business meetings and church, but you HAVE worn flip-flops to church before.
- You ave a drawer full of bathing suits, and one sweatshirt.
- You get annoyed at the tourists who feed seagulls.
- A mountain is any hill 100 feet above sea level.
- You know the four seasons are: hurricane season, love bug season, tourist season, and summer.
- You've hosted a hurricane party.
- You can pronounce Okeechobee, Kissimmee, Withlacoochee, Thonotosassa and Micanopy.

Angels . . . As Explained By Children.

- I only know the names of two angels, Hark and Harold.
- Gregory, age 5
- Everybody's got it all wrong. Angels don't wear halos anymore. I forget why, but scientists are working on it
- Olive, age 9
- It's not easy to become an angel! First, you die. Then you go to Heaven, and then there's still the flight training to go through. And then you got to agree to wear those angel clothes.
- Matthew, age 9
- Angels work for God and watch over kids when God has to go do something else.
- Mitchell, age 7
- My guardian angel helps me with math, but he's not much good for science.
- Henry, age 8
- Angels don't eat, but they drink milk from Holy Cows!!!
- Jack, age 6
- Angels talk all the way while they're flying you up to heaven. The main subject is where you went wrong before you got dead.
- Daniel, age 9
- When an angel gets mad, he takes a deep breath and counts to ten. And when he lets out his breath again, somewhere there's a tornado.
- Reagan, age 10
- Angels have a lot to do and they keep very busy. If you lose a tooth, an angel comes in through your window and leaves money under your pillow. Then when it gets cold, angels go south for the winter.
- Sara, age 6
- Angels live in cloud houses made by God and his Son, who's a very good carpenter.
- Jared, age 8
- All angels are girls because they gotta wear dresses and boys didn't go for it.
- Antonio, age 9

VINYL IS FINAL

"...I am so happy with my new windows...I'd like to commend your work crew. Earbie and Larry were fantastic! I couldn't believe the clean-up EVERYDAY! The whole job took just a week even with all the rain delays. I would and WILL highly recommend your company to my friends and neighbors. Of course I won't need to say a word - the house is doing all the talking! Thank you so much for my beautiful new house."

Carol Zapiecki, Clearwater, FL

"Just a short note to express my appreciation for the work done on my mobile home. The crews that worked here...were gentlemen at all times, efficient, knowledgeable and prompt. You can be sure if I run into anybody who needs your type of work, I will surely recommend your company. It has been a very satisfying experience!"

- My angel is my grandma who died last year. She got a big head start on helping me while she was still down here on earth.
- Ashley, age 9
- Some of the angels are in charge of helping heal sick animals and pets. And if they don't make the animals get better, they help the child get over it.
- Vicki, age 8
- What I don't get about angels is why, when someone is in love, they shoot arrows at them.
- Sarah, age 7

From the Editor's Desk

Susie Buckley

I'm writing this on August 13th. By the time you-all read this newsletter, the eclipse will be over, high school, college and professional football will have started, and some of us (snow-birds) will be experiencing some autumn weather. And that means it's almost the season! Good friends, good times!

But in the meantime, I'm waiting for the tomatoes in the garden to get ripe, and enjoying the flower garden, and the family and friends.

Everyone take care, see you all soon.

Chocolate may be good for your heart

In case you're looking for an excuse to eat some chocolate, consider this: It may reduce your risk of irregular heartbeat.

An analysis of some 55,000 adults from Denmark found that eating 2-6 ounces of chocolate a week was associated with a 20 percent decreased risk of atrial fibrillation, or A-fib, otherwise known as an irregular heartbeat. A-fib can compromise blood flow in the upper chambers of the heart—the atria. People with A-fib are five times more likely to suffer a stroke, according to the American Heart Association, and have twice the risk of a heart-related death.

Moderate consumption of chocolate, especially dark chocolate, appears to reduce that risk, although binging on larger amounts can obviously lead to weight gain and associated problems.

Did you know that September is also...

Blood Cancer Awareness Month. Lymphoma is a type of blood cancer that occurs when lymphocytes—white blood cells that help protect the body from infection and disease—begin behaving abnormally. Lymphoma may develop in many parts of the body, including the lymph nodes, spleen, bone marrow, blood or other organs. This year's theme for Blood Cancer Awareness Month is "Light it Red for Lymphoma."

National Child Awareness Month. During National Child Awareness Month, a wide array of organizations set aside their individual agendas to focus on the bigger picture of children in America today and what can be done to address their growing challenges and needs tomorrow.

National Cholesterol Education Month. National Cholesterol Education Month is a good time to get your blood cholesterol checked and take steps to lower it if it's high. It's also a good time to learn about lipid profiles and food and lifestyle choices that will help you reach your personal cholesterol goals.

National Piano Month. A good month to sign up for piano lessons. Although invented around the year 1700, the piano took several decades to become a favorite of composers and performers alike. In the 19th century the instrument grew larger and more powerful. At the same time, the instrument became the primary source of home entertainment, and learning to play the piano became an important part of childhood education.

Substitute Teacher Appreciation Week, Sept. 3-9. Five days dedicated to the hundreds of thousands of education professionals who fill in at the schools every day across the United States. This nationwide event is recognized by the U.S. House of Representatives, schools, and school districts around the country.

National Suicide Prevention Week, Sept. 10-16. High schools, colleges, and universities can create their own activities for National Suicide Prevention Week. These locations are ideal to promote public awareness of the goals of suicide prevention, educate the public about the prevalence of suicide, and involve young adults in prevention activities.

Child Passenger Safety Week, Sept. 17-23. Car crashes are a leading cause of death for children up to 13 years old. Many deaths and injuries can be prevented by proper use of car seats, boosters, and seat belts. Getting safety information and car seat instructions to parents and caregivers is crucial to saving young lives.

Complete dinosaur skeleton is spectacular find

Most dinosaur fossils consist of a few bones or teeth, but in 2011 a heavy-equipment operator in Alberta, Canada unearthed something unique—the complete fossilized remains of a newfound type of nodosaur, part of the ankylosaur family, which lived between 100 million and 112 million years old.

As reported on the National Geographic website, the dinosaur is still getting paleontologists excited today. The dinosaur is so well preserved that it “might have been walking around a couple of weeks ago,” says paleobiologist Jakob Vinther, who’s studying the ancient beast at Alberta’s Royal Tyrrell Museum.

Because of its preservation, the fossil is providing new insights into the structure of nodosaurs’ armor, letting paleontologists see how sheaths of keratin—material also found in human fingernails—exaggerated the armor’s size and shape.

Robot can grasp complex objects with new hand

Most robotic hands are clumsy and have a hard time picking up odd-shaped objects like shoes or spray bottles. But according to the Science News website, roboticists at UC Berkeley have created a robot that can pick up and move awkward objects with a success rate of 99 percent.

The robot, DexNet 2.0, uses a process called deep learning to handle objects. The roboticists created a database of three-dimensional shapes using 6.7 million data points. A neural network learned ways to grasp, lift, and move irregularly shaped objects, and then was hooked up to a robotic arm with a 3D sensor. DexNet 2.0 studies an object placed in front of it and then chooses the right grasp to pick it up and move it.

DexNet 2.0’s success rate could be applied to industry, possibly revolutionizing manufacturing and supply chains.

He studies it because he takes pleasure in it, and he takes pleasure in it because it is beautiful.

What to eat? The choices can be confusing

Americans trying to eat healthy have lots of choices, but all those options can be confusing. The CNN website reports that 78 percent of respondents to a survey by the International Food Information Council Foundation said they're not sure what foods they should eat and which they should avoid.

The survey of slightly more than 1,000 American adults found that almost 60 percent named food that's "high in healthy components or nutrients" as one of their top three factors for choosing a "healthy" food, followed by food that's free from artificial ingredients, preservatives or additives (just more than 50 percent). Choices that are "part of an important food group that I need to build a healthy eating style" rounded out the list of foods health-conscious folks are looking for (nearly 50 percent).

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration considers food that can be marketed as "healthy" as having low levels of total and saturated fat, sodium, and cholesterol, and at least 10 percent of the daily requirements for vitamins, fiber, and other nutrients.

Millennial women take less vacation than men

Americans workers have a reputation for not taking all the vacation they have coming. Among them, millennial women seem to take the least: Only 44 percent used all their vacation time in 2016, according to a survey reported on the Mic website, compared with 51 percent of their male co-workers.

What's behind the gap? Thirty-seven percent of millennial women said they want to demonstrate full commitment to their jobs, but only 32 percent of men surveyed expressed the same feeling. Moreover, 35 percent of the women said they feel guilty about taking time off, compared with 25 percent of the men.

Overall, 53 percent of the 7,331 millennials surveyed left unused vacation days, with 55 percent of Gen Xers and 52 percent of Baby Boomers forfeiting vacation days.

Teens: Not glued to social media

Most of us imagine that today's teens do nothing but sit around with their smartphones texting each other, checking social media, posting images to Instagram, and the like. That stereotype, like most, isn't true. An Associated Press-NORC Center for Public Affairs Research survey of teens recently found that 58 percent voluntarily take breaks from social media for various reasons:

- Getting in the way of work or school: 8 percent
- Tired of conflict and drama: 24 percent
- Tired of keeping up: 20 percent
