Eating more fish may help prevent Alzheimer's

Alzheimer's, a disease that afflicts some 5.1 million Americans, is a type of dementia that affects a person's memory, thinking, and behavior. Although at this point no cure exists, you can take measures to reduce your chances of suffering from this debilitating condition.

New evidence suggests that eating more fish—as long as it's not fried—may help to protect your brain from the shrinkage and decline associated with Alzheimer's. Researchers from the University of Pittsburgh Medical Center tracked the diets of 260 people with normal cognitive function for more than 10 years. Using magnetic resonance imaging (MRI), they measured the brain volume and function of each participant at the beginning of the study, and again at the end. The results: The 163 subjects who ate fish on a weekly basis (the majority consuming it one to four times a week) had a larger orbital frontal cortex and hippocampus (two areas of the brain that are known to shrink in Alzheimer's patients) and better memory function than those who ate less fish.

The researchers determined that the risk for Alzheimer's and mild cognitive impairment was lowered fivefold within the five years following the brain scans. So start eating more fish today.

Follow this 'Golden Rule' to reduce cancer risk

Want to cut your risk of developing cancer? Check the color of your food—particularly your toast and potatoes. Scientists in the United Kingdom say that cooking those two items too long can increase levels of a naturally occurring chemical called acrylamide, which has been linked to cancer in rats.

Acrylamide is formed when starchy foods like potatoes and root vegetables are cooked at over 120 degrees. To reduce it in your foods, follow these guidelines:

- Cook until golden. Whether you're making toast, roasting potatoes, or baking vegetables, cook until the food is gold-colored, not brown.
- Check the instructions. Follow instructions for baking or frying packaged vegetables like fries or parsnips.
- Keep raw potatoes fresh. Don't put them in the refrigerator if you're going to roast or fry them. Colder temperatures can increase acrylamide levels.

Leading by example

Bill Gates, co-founder of Microsoft, has his own private jet now, but he didn't always. On the Business Insider website, former senior vice president Brad Silverberg recalls that in the 1990s, all Microsoft employees were required to travel by commercial airline—in coach, despite the fact that by that time Microsoft was a thriving organization. On one flight from Seattle to New York, Silverberg flew with Gates and some other members of the Windows team:

“And there was Bill, sitting in coach, in a middle seat. It didn't matter to him; he spent the whole flight reading. He wasn't as universally recognized then so it wasn't such an issue for him to fly commercial. It made a big impression on me, a new Microsoft employee, seeing Bill lead by example.”

Different priorities

During a Little League game, one of the batters hit a fly ball to right field that the right fielder made no attempt to catch. After the inning was over, the coach pulled his right fielder aside and asked him why he didn't even try to catch the ball.

“If I had caught that ball,” replied the boy, “I would have killed my new friend.” And with that, he opened up his glove to show the coach a caterpillar he had found in the field.

Remember this story to remind yourself that everyone's priorities are different.

Rules apply to everyone

During the Civil War, Ulysses S. Grant, commander of the Union forces, had to reprimand a guard who had deserted his post. “Orders must be strictly and promptly obeyed always,” Grant told the young soldier.

A week later, the same soldier was told to guard a steamboat loaded with ammunition. His assignment: to make sure that nobody with a lighted pipe or cigar came near the boat. On the guard's first day at his new post, General Grant started walking toward the boat, puffing away on one of his famous cigars.

“Halt!” called the guard. “I have been taught to obey orders strictly and promptly, and my orders are to allow no one to approach this boat with a lighted cigar.”

With a smile at hearing his own words repeated back to him, Grant threw the cigar in the river.

Help for Severe Aortic Stenosis

Severe aortic stenosis is a narrowed aortic heart valve that doesn't open and close properly, reducing blood flow to the rest of the body.

Morton Plant Hospital is now enrolling eligible patients in the Medtronic Evolut R low-risk trial, which investigates the safety and effectiveness of a transcatheter aortic valve replacement (TAVR) system in patients with severe aortic stenosis who are at a low surgical mortality risk. TAVR is a minimally invasive alternative to open-heart surgery used to treat failing aortic heart valves in patients with severe aortic stenosis. Morton Plant Hospital was chosen as the first hospital in Tampa Bay to offer the TAVR procedure for patients with severe aortic stenosis who were at an intermediate or high surgical mortality risk. Our team has completed more than 700 TAVR procedures over the last five years.

To see if you or a loved one with severe aortic stenosis may be eligible for this trial, or for more information on the trial, call the Center for Advanced Valve and Structural Heart Care at Morton Plant Hospital at (855) 44-VALVE (855-448-2583) or visit MortonPlantValveTrial.org.

Getting into Heaven

A woman died and found herself at the Pearly Gates. St. Peter approached her with a smile. “To enter, you need only pass a simple spelling test. Can you spell the word ‘love’?”

“L-O-V-E,” the woman replied, and St. Peter stepped aside and allowed her to enter Heaven.

Several years later, St. Peter found her on a cloud and said, “I have a big meeting today with the Boss, and I can’t watch the gates. Would you mind taking my spot?”

The woman agreed. The morning passed uneventfully, and then she looked up and saw her husband approaching. “It’s so nice to see you!” she exclaimed. “How have you been?”

“Just great,” her husband replied. “I married the beautiful young nurse who took care of you while you were sick, and we had three more children. I won the lottery. We lived in a huge mansion. We had matching BMWs. My wife and I were taking our yacht on a second honeymoon cruise when I fell overboard and drowned.” He looked around. “So, how do I get into Heaven?”

“You just have to spell one word.

He smiled. “Great! What word?”

She stared at him. “Kyrgyzstan.”

Feeling the heat

A man in Dublin went in for a serious operation. The surgery took some time and the man was returned to his room to recover. As he came out of the anesthetic he looked around his room and saw that all the shades had been drawn, even though it was early afternoon.

When the surgeon walked into the room to check on his patient, the man asked why all the blinds were pulled down.

“The house across the street is on fire,” the surgeon told him. “I was afraid that if you saw the flames when you woke up you might have concluded that the operation was not a success.”

A SMILE IS A CURVE THAT SETS EVERYTHING STRAIGHT.

Keep your home safe to prevent injury

Your home might be your castle, but that doesn't mean you're necessarily safe there at all times. Follow this advice to protect yourself and your family from common household injuries—and even death:

- Check your smoke detectors. Fire kills more than 2,900 people and injures 16,000 each year. And most of the fires break out when people are asleep. Install a smoke detector on each floor and outside each bedroom; change batteries at least twice a year.
- Buy carbon monoxide detectors. Carbon monoxide is an odorless, colorless gas that can kill you or send you to the hospital. Most detectors cost between $40 and $170.
- Invest in nightlights. It may sound basic, but a simple nightlight could prevent you from tumbling down the stairs and breaking something.
- Other tidbits include: deadbolt locks, grab bars for the tub, rubber-suction bath mats, handrails on stairs, fire extinguishers, flashlights, a fire evacuation plan, and posting local emergency numbers on the refrigerator.

Olympic secrets to achieving your dreams in life

Want to achieve all your goals in life? Former Olympian Inga Stasiullontye shared the secrets that propelled her to fame as an athlete and entrepreneur on the Success magazine website:

- Be fully committed. Choose a goal that's important to you, and motivation will follow.
- Focus on learning. You won't succeed all the time. Don't obsess about results. Instead, keep your mind on learning what works and what doesn't, and why.
- Have some fun. Try not to take your efforts too seriously. Choose goals and activities that you enjoy so you can have some fun along the way.
- Think creatively. Don't mindlessly repeat everyone else's tactics and strategies. Use your imagination to find new ways of doing things.
- Challenge yourself. Get out of your comfort zone. If you're always waiting for the perfect idea or the best moment to act, you won't get the results you want.
- Rely on yourself. Don't expect other people to do the work for you. You can ask for help, but remember that in the end your effort is what matters.
- Plan. Start with a long-term plan, and then map out intermediate steps. Move forward one step at a time until you reach your goal.
- Avoid burnout. You can work so hard that you exhaust yourself and lose your motivation. Eat a healthy diet, get plenty of exercise, and take breaks so you don't overextend yourself.

A solemn tradition: Memorial Day

Memorial Day began in the 19th century as “Decoration Day,” when citizens were encouraged to decorate the graves of soldiers who’d died in the Civil War. After World War I, Decoration Day expanded to include ceremonies honoring the dead in all of America’s wars.

Decoration Day officially became Memorial Day in 1967. In 1968 the Uniform Holidays Act established it as one of three holidays (including Veteran’s Day and George Washington’s birthday, now called Presidents Day) celebrated on a Monday to create a convenient three-day weekend. Memorial Day is now observed on the last Monday in May.

Wearing poppies is a popular Memorial Day tradition. The custom is generally credited to Moina Michael, a former teacher at the University of Georgia, who was working for the YMCA Overseas War Secretaries at the end of World War I.

She was inspired by reading the poem “In Flanders Fields,” by Canadian poet and doctor John McCrae. The poem’s opening lines read:

In Flanders Fields, the poppies blow
Between the crosses, row on row . . .

During the Overseas War Secretaries’ annual conference held in New York City in 1918, shortly before the signing of the armistice that ended the war, grateful delegates gave Michael $10 in recognition of her help with the conference. She spent the money on 25 red silk poppies to hand out to participants (or she may have used the money on materials to make the poppies herself).

The poppy became a national symbol of remembrance, and two years later the American Legion adopted it at its own conference. Poppies have symbolized the day ever since.
