Nature's Forecasters

by: Loche Kline

Weather certainly has been and always will be a topic of conversation. The "Old Farmer's Almanac" has been THE "go to" authority for many of us throughout our lifetimes. Their forecasts are amazing accurate as well as being entertaining to read. But stop and think about all of the things that you've relied on to help you decide if it's going to "rain on your parade".

Some predictors that come to my mind include:

"When a rooster crows before going to bed, a change in the weather is sure ahead."

If acorns are plentiful, it's going to a rough winter. Mother Nature has a way of taking care of the squirrels etc. in advance.

The saying that pertains to those black and brown woolly worms is... "the narrower the brown band in the middle, the harsher the weather". White furry caterpillars are a sure sign of heavy snow!

Count the number of cricket chirps in 14 seconds and add 40 to know the present temperature.

You may have heard the weather rhyme, "When dew is on the grass, rain will never come to pass. When grass is dry at morning light, look for rain before the night."

My Dad used to say that if the cows line up with their rears towards incoming rain, it means that it's going to be quick shower. During an all day rain, they know that they'll get their butts washed without turning any certain direction!

Folklore claims that butterflies can predict the weather but I'm certain no butterfly will ever be seen doing the weather forecast on the nightly news. Their behavior however, can be a predictor of approaching rain. I love to sit and watch as an assortment of colorful butterflies flit around our yard. The other day it was ablaze with colorful species. I tried to identify some. Of course, there were Monarchs, Red Admirals, Cabbage Whites, a Black Swallowtail and even a Painted Lady. Suddenly, the butterflies were gone and the rain drops began to fall. It was one of many Ohio monsoons that we experienced this summer. I realized that it must have been a difficult season for the sun-loving butterfly! I got out my trusty computer and discovered that butterflies are cold-blooded, meaning that they have no internal heat source and their body temperature will be the same as the air around them. I also discovered the optimum flying temperature for butterflies is between 82 and 102 degrees Fahrenheit. Butterflies do fly when the air temperature is below 82 degrees but to do so, they must first warm their body to 85 degrees. This is done by basking in the sun or if there is no sun, finding a warm object to draw heat from, such as the side of a building or a flat rock and then "shivering" until they are warm. I've seen butterflies doing just that and I bet you have, as well?!?

Rain is also no trivial matter for a butterfly. Rain storms can mean colder temperatures, high winds and even hail. Not a good forecast for a tiny butterfly. I found information stating that "An average Monarch weighs about 500 milligrams.... large raindrops have a mass of 70 milligrams or more. A raindrop that size striking a Monarch would be equivalent to you being pelted by water balloons with twice the size of bowling balls!" To avoid injury, butterflies retreat quickly when rain threatens and take shelter in the same place that they roost at night. That might be under tall grasses, the underside of large leaves, in man-made objects, or in vegetation under tall trees.

Butterflies are able to lower their metabolism rate and rest, living off their body fat for up to five days, or if necessary they can move into yet another survival mode and lower all vital functions to a minimum. One researcher observed a small butterfly clinging to a seed head through thirteen days of rain, it's wings folded tightly around it's body. The little butterfly survived. Some butterflies don't care for summer's heat and humidity. They cope by "resting" during July and August and will again become active in the cooler, dryer days of fall. That seems to account for the more frequent sightings of these lovely creatures in our yard recently. Using that information I'd say that YES, even watching pretty butterflies can predict approaching weather!

I'll bet that you and your family have favorite weather indicators that you've always relied upon, too. Why not share them?!?

This is Lakeside Lassie sharing one final favorite old Indian weather saying "The drought will be broken when the sky is black all around and it is pouring down in the center of the teepee"!!!

From Gloria!!

What a great summer we had!

From our Memorial Day Dinner, July 4th Corn Hole tournament, BBQ and pool-side party, Pancake Breakfasts, Pot luck dinners and movies, pizza party, Build a sub sandwich and Razzmatazz show to our very large and successful end of summer Labor Day Chinese Food and Ice Cream Sundae Party (73 of us were there). YAY for us!

Jan and Steve Shultz were declared honorary winners of the Corn Hole Tournament because they were the only 2 to bravely show up to the RAINED OUT event. What troopers these 2 "peeps" are .

Every event had an amazing turnout and I thank you ALL for your participation and to the folks who helped me with everything I give you my most sincere gratitude.

Summer was wonderful, filled with food and fun and the camaraderie was HEART WARMING. Now the Snowbird season is fast approaching and with that there will be lots more friends to share in the fun events to come so get ready y'all!

My love and best wishes to everyone that makes Lake Highlander a first class community.

For all you crafters “Save the Date”

ART AND CRAFT FAIR - Submitted by Lynn Marro, Lot 256 - There is something new and exciting for our Friday, November 20th Fair. We will be inviting friends and relatives of Lake Highlander residents who have new or different wares for sale to participate in the Fair. They will be charged a small fee to cover advertising. Before they sign up for a table, please have them contact me any time at r21mar@aol.com or at lot #256 (727-786-5719) after October 10th. We are looking for new and different arts and crafts that will expand the interest in the Fair but will not compete with our resident artists and crafters.

LAKE HIGHLANDER GOLF LEAGUE

Welcome back everyone!! Our Golf League officially starts on Friday, November 6, 2015. However, we will start golfing as soon as it cools down a bit. I will put a notice up in the clubhouse when we start.

Please consider joining our group. Lots of fun and good natured ribbing every week. Ladies and gentlemen of all golfing levels are welcome!! We are a fun league. We play at Countryway Golf Club on Waters Ave. in Tampa (just after the Oldsmar Flea Market). It is an executive course.

HALLOWEEN - Fun Fact

Evolving from the ancient Celtic holiday of Samhain, modern Halloween has become less about literal ghosts and ghouls and more about costumes and candy. The Celts used the day to mark the end of the harvest season and the beginning of winter, and also believed that this transition between the seasons was a bridge to the world of the dead. Over the millennia the holiday transitioned from a somber pagan ritual to a day of merriment, costumes, parades and sweet treats for children and adults.

Lake Highlander Resident Turns 100 Years Old

A big party was held for Phil Rheberg who turned 100 years old on 8 August 2015. Phil has been a resident at Lake Highlander since 1980. The party was hosted by his children, Elizabeth Longhurst and husband George, John Rheberg and Jim Rheberg and wife Judy. Phil's grandchildren also came to celebrate with him, Matthew Longhurst and wife Joy (Puyallup, WA) David Rheberg and wife Christine (Round Lake, Ill, Brandi Clark (Rheberg) (Dubuque, Iowa) and Julie Vance (Longhurst)(Bothell WA) Phil was also thrilled to see three of his great grand children. Vahn Clark, 3 years old, Inga Clark, 14 months old, and his newest great grand child, Simon Vance who was only 7 weeks old. A big thank you to all who attended and helped with his celebration. A special thanks to Darlene Johnson who designed and printed all the invitations. Phil said "it was the best party he had ever had" as he celebrated and visited with Lake Highlander friends and family. All who attended were amazed to see how great he looked. Phil is currently in Meese Continuing Care and would be glad to have any visitors.

He turned right and ran straight ahead.
Then he turned left.
After awhile, he turned left again, running faster than ever.
Then he turned left once more and decided to go home.
In the distance he could see two masked men waiting for him.
Who were they? ??????????????
The umpire and the catcher, it was a baseball game!

GOT MY CONCEALED CARRY PERMIT YESTERDAY

In the afternoon, I went over to the local sports Shop to get a small 9mm handgun for home/personal protection.

When I was ready to pay for the pistol and ammo, the cashier said, "Strip down, facing me."

Making a mental note to complain to the NRA about the gun control wackos running amok, I did just as she had instructed.

When the hysterical shrieking and alarms finally subsided, I found out she was referring to how I should place my credit card in the card reader!!!

As an intelligent senior citizen, I do not get flustered often. But this time, it took me a while to get my pants back on.

I've been asked to shop elsewhere in the future. They need to make their instructions to seniors a little more clear.

I still don't think I looked that bad!

Four Bass Players - Pun Jokes

A year ago, Hans Vonk conducted the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra in a production of Beethoven's Ninth Symphony. During the final movement of Beethoven's Ninth, there is a large pause in the Orchestration where only the chorus sings.

Four bass players, feeling they could use this break to get out and stretch their legs, slipped off backstage and proceeded to go outside to smoke a cigarette and take a little nip from a bottle one of them was carrying.

Well, they lost track of time and became quite inebriated. Finally one of them says, "Say! We should really be getting back in... It's almost time to play our part."

"Don't worry," confided one of the other bassists with a wink. "I've fixed it so that we have a longer pause... I tied together the last parts of the conductor's score before our part begins!"

All the bass players had a good chuckle and took a few more swigs and headed in. Once they popped back on stage, they saw that conductor Vonk was absolutely furious. After all, it was the bottom of the Ninth, the basses were loaded, and the score was tied.
