Coffee may cut risk of death, studies say

Starting the day with a cup of coffee helps many of us wake up. New evidence suggests it may help us live a longer life, too.

In one study written up in the journal Annals of Internal Medicine, researchers at the University of Southern California's Keck School of Medicine surveyed more than 185,000 Americans for 16 years. Their results: People who drank one cup of java a day were 12 percent less likely to die than those who didn't, and people who drank two to three cups were less likely to die by 18 percent—regardless of whether the coffee was caffeinated or not.

In another study reported in the same journal, researchers analyzed data from more than half a million people across Europe, and found that higher levels of coffee drinking were associated with a decrease in the risk of death from many causes, including circulatory and digestive tract diseases.

So enjoy your cup of coffee. It may add years to your life.

Keep your muscles strong at any age

As we grow older, we often lose muscle mass. Muscle mass decline typically starts in the 40s but increases after age 50. One study of about 200 men and women ages 64-93 found that it affected 22.6 percent of the women and 26.8 percent of the men.

Take these steps to keep your muscles intact:

- Strength training. Lifting weights has been shown to increase muscle mass and may even reverse the most debilitating effects of muscle loss.
- Aerobic exercise. Healthy muscle tissue needs capillaries to infuse it with blood. Regular exercise, like a brisk half-hour walk every day, can provide this.
- Protein. Inadequate protein in the diet, or difficulties digesting and absorbing protein, may be a factor in susceptibility to lost muscle mass. Older adults may need to increase their consumption of protein to maintain their lean body mass.

Facts are stubborn, but statistics are more pliable.

Families growing in size as remarriage rises

Family relationships can be complicated these days. The Bloomberg website reports that almost a third of U.S. households headed by adults under 55 have at least one stepchild, and among couples over 55 with adult children, 33 percent have at least one stepchild. Counting stepchildren boosts the size of a family by 55 percent among Americans with grown children.

Divorce and remarriage are driving the growth. The divorce rate for older Americans has almost doubled in the last 20 years, with almost 30 percent of people over 50 having been married more than once.

Life it is not just a series of calculations and a sum total of statistics, it's about experience, it's about participation, it is something more complex and more interesting than what is obvious.

—Daniel Libeskind

Beat sleeplessness through awareness of the risks

Insomnia is becoming a problem in our society, and it's attributable to complex interactions among dozens of factors. One in three American adults don't get enough sleep every night, and that number may rise if we don't work collectively to try and improve our sleep patterns. As health care writer Anna Johansson points out, the effects of sleep deprivation are dangerous, both in the short and long term:

- Lack of focus and memory. As both a short-term and long-term effect, losing sleep can interfere with your ability to create new memories, and may make it more difficult to focus during the day. This makes it difficult to perform in most professional roles.
- Declining cognitive abilities. Sleep loss also hinders your cognitive capacity, making it more difficult to think critically or solve problems. This gets more intense with more sleeplessness over time.

- Obesity and diabetes. There's evidence to show that chronic sleeplessness can lead to obesity, as well as diabetes, which in turn can lead to even more serious health complications.
- Heart disease and mortality. Chronic lack of sleep may even increase the likelihood and severity of heart disease, and decrease your lifespan.

Living in a healthy state

Does the state where you live affect your health? Some U.S. states appear to be dramatically healthier than others, based on rates of infectious disease, obesity, smoking, infant mortality, air pollution, and other factors. United Health Foundation looked at the figures and identified the healthiest—and unhealthiest—states in the country:

Healthiest

- Massachusetts
- Hawaii
- Vermont
- Utah
- Connecticut

Unhealthiest

- Mississippi
- Louisiana
- Arkansas
- Alabama
- West Virginia

He who cures a disease may be the skillfullest, but he that prevents it is the safest physician.

—Thomas Fuller

Protect your eyes when dealing with car batteries

Many people don't know that vehicle batteries contain acid and produce hydrogen and oxygen gases, making them lethal if improperly handled. It's particularly important to understand the dangers when jump-starting a dead battery. A spark or lighted cigarette can ignite the gases and turn the battery into a bomb of flying fragments and acid.

The first line of protection is to wear safety goggles when dealing with car batteries. If battery acid does splash into your eyes, though, don't panic. Flush your eyes with any "drinkable" liquid close at hand. It can be water, milk, juice, or even soda. Remember that every second counts. The longer acid sits in the eyes, the more damage it can do.

Monthly

Women’s History Month. Celebrate the achievements of women like Juliette Gordon Low, who founded the Girl Scouts in 1912, before women had the right to vote and despite her severe hearing impairment.

National Nutrition Month. The Academy of Nutrition and Dietetics wants you to develop good eating habits and make better food choices. The theme of this year’s campaign is, “Go further with food.”

National Craft Month. Paint a picture, learn to scrapbook, piece together a quilt, develop a new hobby, but most important, create something. Optimism Month. Find the silver linings amidst the clouds, shed the negativity, and improve your “uplook.”

Expanding Girls’ Horizons in Science and Engineering Month. This is a time to promote education, diversity, and future career opportunities for girls in the fields of science, technology, engineering, and math. Take your daughters, nieces, and little sisters to a science center for a day of exploration and fun.

Weekly

Girl Scout Week, March 11-17. Founded to help create a network of girls and experiences that foster their individuality, intellect, and growth, the Girl Scouts celebrate the organization’s birthday every March 12. Visit GirlScouts.org to learn more.

International Brain Awareness Week, March 12-18. It’s the time of year to shine a spotlight on the advancements in the field of brain research. Check out the websites for The Dana Foundation and the Society for Neuroscience to find out about lectures, events, and exhibits in your area.

Act Happy Week, March 19-25. The third week of the month is devoted to embracing your inner joy and sharing it with others. If you’re looking for a reason to be happy, think spring.

National Poison Prevention Week, March 18-24. The American Association for Poison Control Centers handles over 2 million calls annually dealing with exposure to dangerous substances. Contact the information hotline for the AAPCC at 1-800-222-1222, or follow it on Facebook and Twitter to learn about prevention measures.

Outer space mineral found on Earth

A rare mineral from outer space has been discovered at the site of an ancient meteor strike on the Isle of Skye, according to the Fox News website. British geologists were investigating volcanic rocks when they identified the mineral osbornite from a previously undiscovered meteor impact. Before this, osbornite had only been picked up as space dust by NASA space missions.

The discovery has raised questions about where the meteorite hit, as well as whether the impact caused an eruption of volcanic lava that began at the same time.

Clues to Saturn's rings

Scientists and non-scientists alike have long been fascinated by the rings of Saturn. Data from NASA's Cassini space probe, which ended its mission by plunging into the seventh planet's dense atmosphere in 2017, have provided fresh insights into the origin and age of the rings, according to an article on the Science News website.

During its final orbits, Cassini measured the difference between the gravitational pull the probe experienced from Saturn alone and the pull from the rings and the planet together. The data showed that the largest ring, which represents about 80 percent of the rings' total mass, was lighter than expected, suggesting that it's also relatively young. Instead of being composed of particles during the same time Saturn was being born, the rings are probably the remnants of at least one of Saturn's moons, scientists now think. How the rings actually formed remains a mystery.

Climate change spurred migration from Africa

Humans migrated out of Africa some 60,000 years ago. Until recently, scientists believed the move was spurred by a wet climate that created pathways to Eurasia. New studies, though, show that the migration may have occurred for the opposite reasons—to escape an increasingly dry climate.

The Sci-News website reports that researchers analyzed the Horn of Africa's climate 200,000 years ago by studying a core of ocean sediment taken from the western end of the Gulf of Aden, off modern-day Somalia. They looked at chemicals created by a type of algae that changed composition depending on water temperature. The team determined that the climate in the Horn of Africa some 70,000 years ago shifted from a wet phase to one that was drier and colder than it is now. The transition would have prompted early humans to migrate from Africa to the Middle East and Asia.

An old can of paint may be an environmental hazard

If you've got unused paint lying around your workplace (or your home), don't ignore it. Paint can be considered hazardous waste, dangerous to the environment and to the people in it. Storing it safely and disposing of it properly are essential to your employees' or family members' health. Follow these guidelines:

- Seal it tightly. If you don't use all your paint, store it with care. Clean the rim so the lid fits securely, and tap the lid into place with a hammer. Turn the can upside down so the paint itself forms a seal around the lid. Write the date on the can with a marker.
- Check your location. Store paint cans in a dry area where you can keep track of them. Don't leave paint near a heating source or in bright sunlight—or anyplace where it might freeze.
- Determine if it's usable. If you're trying to decide whether to use old paint, stir it. If it mixes easily, it's probably fine. Oil-based paint is usually good for up to 15 years; latex paint will remain usable for about 10 years.

- Dry the paint out. If you have only a small amount of paint left over and you can't use it up, dry it out before throwing it away. But first check with your state and local laws on solidifying liquid paint; in some communities, you'll have to take all unused paint to a local hazardous waste center. If it's permissible, leave the can open in a dry, well-ventilated area, preferably outside and away from children or pets. You can use kitty litter to soak up and dry out the remaining liquid. Then discard it.

Ancient fossils bolster case for life throughout the cosmos

An analysis of ancient fossil microorganisms suggests that life in the universe may indeed be commonplace, according to the Science Daily website. The microorganisms are 3.465 billion years old and were found in western Australia. Scientists studying them found that some of them performed a simple form of photosynthesis while others apparently produced methane gas, and others used the gas to build their cell walls.

Because these organisms evolved very early in Earth's history, scientists believe it unlikely that life would have formed on Earth and nowhere else in the universe. "This tells us life had to have begun substantially earlier, and it confirms that it was not difficult for primitive life to form and to evolve into more advanced microorganisms," says J. William Schopf, a professor of paleobiology in the UCLA College, and lead author of the study, written up in the journal Proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences.

Be contrary to plumb new ideas

Following the crowd is usually a safe bet, but it doesn't usually lend itself to creative thinking. If you want to be creative, sometimes you have to go against the grain. The trick is figuring out when you have a situation that calls for you to stand out from the crowd and take a contrary point of view from the majority.

The first thing to do before launching your career as a rebel is ask yourself whether you have a good reason for your contrary opinion. Just going against the conventional wisdom for the sake of taking the other side isn't usually smart. For instance, if you think your organization should change the color of a product, but it has a long history of making the product in only one distinct color, you have to be able to back up your opinion with reasons why you think this will benefit the organization. You might believe, for example, that your product needs to be rebranded—that it has grown stale with time and overexposure. Even if you don't ultimately succeed, you'll stretch your creative muscles and show an ability to think independently, which can only boost your career.

How the famous get ahead

What makes today's richest people so successful? There's no one answer, of course, but an infographic on the MBAnoGMAT.com website looks at some of the secrets of many highly successful figures in business, science, entertainment, and more:

- Elon Musk, founder and CEO of Tesla Motors and SpaceX. He schedules his day in five-minute blocks to squeeze the most out of every minute.
- Mark Zuckerberg, co-founder and chairman of Facebook. He wears the same T-shirt, pants, and hoodie every day to minimize the number of decisions he has to make, leaving his mind free to pursue the most important ideas.
- Bill Gates, chairman of Microsoft. The computer guru reads 50 books a year.
- Richard Branson, founder of the Virgin Group. He gets up every day to exercise by swimming, playing tennis, or flying kites, and claims to get an extra four hours per day or productivity as a result.
- Peter Thiel, co-founder of PayPal. He often asks, "Why can't you get your 10-year plan done in the next six months?" He believes in staying "lean" or "unplanned," because entrepreneurship is about experimentation.

Teed off

Golf courses typically have two sets of tees, one for women and one farther back for men. One day at the first tee a man was stepping up to his ball when a voice came over the clubhouse loudspeaker: “Will the gentleman on hole No. 1 please not hit from the ladies’ tee?”

The golfer looked up, surprised, then addressed his ball again. The voice on the loudspeaker repeated, “Will the gentleman on hole No. 1 please not hit from the ladies’ tee?”

Irritated now, the golfer backed away, took a deep breath, and once again approached his ball. For a third time, the loudspeaker blared: “Will the gentleman on hole No. 1 please not hit from the ladies’ tee?”

The man flung his golf club down. “Will the announcer please shut up and let me hit my second shot?”

An exciting finish

Two bass players performing Beethoven’s Ninth Symphony realized that for some time at the end of the piece, the bassists play nothing. They decided to sneak out of the auditorium for a quick drink at the bar in the lobby.

After a few quick shots, one of them checked his watch. “Uh-oh, we have to get back in two minutes.”

“Don’t worry.” His friend ordered another round. “I tied down the last page of the conductor’s score, so they’ll keep playing the same part over and over. No one will notice.”

After a few more drinks, they staggered backstage and made their way back to their chairs as the conductor struggled to untie his music score with one hand while conducting the orchestra.

One usher at the rear of the auditorium whispered, “What’s going on?”

The other usher answered, “Well, it’s pretty exciting. It’s the bottom of the Ninth, the score is tied, and the bassists are loaded!”

I guess I laugh to keep from crying. And I guess if you ever get me crying, I might not stop. This is the way I look at tragedy or else I’ll cry.
—Bob Newhart

Monthly Mania: It Pays (Up to $100) To Patronize the Advertisers in Your Newsletter

THOUSANDS manufactured home residents have won over $138,400 since our contest began. It's simple to play ... when you patronize a current advertiser, ask for a Monthly Mania ticket (or a reasonable facsimile) and fill it out completely. Put the ticket in our Monthly Mania drop box in your community or mail your paid receipt to us at Monthly Media • 220 Bahama St. • Venice, FL 34285. That's all you do. At the end of the month the Publishers will pick up the tickets and hold a drawing. If your ticket is drawn, we mail you a check.

(Allow 4-6 weeks for mailing of check). This month's cash winners are:
